NATION WATCHES GRID TILT

NOTRE DAME BATTLE WITH TROJANS WILL DRAW 90,000 FANS

Southern California Favored In Bets; Field Is Dry

By GEORGE T. DAVIS
I. N. S. Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6.—In a setting that rivalled anything in the history of football, Southern California and Notre Dame today commanded the attention of the entire sporting world as they prepared to write the most blazing chapter in gridiron history.

It was a gala holiday crowd as the vanguard of 90,000 spectators, the largest number ever to witness a game in Los Angeles, gathered at the coliseum.

The eyes and ears of the whole nation focused on this battle for supremacy, which was to be played on a dry, fast greensward beneath a warm California sun.

On one side was Notre Dame, one of the four undefeated teams of the year.

On the other was Southern California which, though beaten by Washington State, has been characterized by Howard Jones as the greatest he ever has coached.

And, strange as it might seem, the defeated team ruled a favorite over the one with an unblemished record, odds on the Trojans ranging from 10 to 3 to 2 to 1.

Jones said that he doesn't see any reason for his team to rank as such a favorite.

Knute Rockne is more direct in his pre-game opinion.

"I realize that without Joe Savoldi and Moon Mullins we haven't much chance to win but you'll see a real ball game. We haven't given up hope, remote as it may be, and we'll be in there with no alibis, win or lose."

Riding from Tucson yesterday, one of the closest confidants of Rockne declared that with Savoldi

FORMER INSANE MAN WHO LIBERATED SIX WAS ALSO FUGITIVE

Nelson Escaped To Prevent Trial On Robbery Case

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Matthew's spectacular delivery of six lunatics was engineered by a former inmate who escaped from the institution on the eve of his being pronounced sane and fit to face re-trial for robbery, Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, superintendent of the state hospital, said today.

He explained: "William Nelson, who invaded Matthew with two gunmen, had somehow learned that we no longer considered him insane. He knew what this meant—a new hearing and the possibility of a stiff prison sentence in a penitentiary. About two weeks ago, before we communicated with the prosecuting attorney, he escaped. Apparently he missed the comradeship of the men for whom he returned. He took desperate efforts—that succeeded—to renew old acquaintanceships."

Today eleven armed guards were thrown about the hospital grounds in preparation for the possible reappearance of Nelson. This was caused by the assertion of Nelson, who before fleeing with his friends told seventy other patients: "Cheer up, boys. I'll come back and get you of you!"

Meanwhile Rochester police were hunting for Harry Gordon, the "mad butcher." A coroner was thrown about his home in fear that Gordon would return to continue his killings under the delusion he is divinely inspired.

AVIATRIX FLIES TO RECOVER PLANE

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6.—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, daring Australian aviatrix, today boarded a Curtiss plane for Andros Island.

Arriving at Andros, she will return to Miami in her plane, "The Bullet," in which she was forced to land several days ago on the Havana-Miami hop of her return Pittsburgh-Havana round-trip flight.

The plane, which she was compelled to land in the bush of the island, has been repaired.

MOTHER KILLS TWO CHILDREN WHILE CRAZED

Two Others Escape; Woman In Custody In Hospital

CHESTER, Pa., Dec. 6.—Believed temporarily crazed by poverty and worry over the future of her four small children, Mrs. Ida Twadell, 38, was held for observation in the Chester Hospital today after she killed two of her little tots late last night.

Frightened at the tragedy before their eyes the other two children escaped by running to the homes of neighbors.

The two victims are believed to have been battered with a sash weight then drowned in the bathtub. Their bodies were found floating in the bathtub by their father when he returned home from work.

Nearly lay a sashweight and butcher knife which the crazed woman is believed to have used in the executions.

"I had to do it," the mother screamed when the tragedy was discovered. "I couldn't bear to let them grow up without an education."

The bodies of the two tots, Kenneth, six months and Herbert, 2, were in the city morgue, while the other children, Violet, 6, and Clarence, 4, were in the care of neighbors. The father, Lafayette Twadell, was overcome by the tragedy.

PRISONER FAILS IN DARING ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE OFFICERS

Breaks Chain And Runs Outside Walls Of Ohio Pen

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6.—Donald Devore, 25-year-old parole violator of Steubenville, was safely confined behind the walls of Ohio penitentiary here today despite a daring attempt to escape officers who returned him to the state prison late Friday afternoon.

Devore broke a chain by which he was held and ran several hundred yards before he was halted by bullets fired by two men.

The youth was brought here by H. E. Hadley, parole officer. As their automobile arrived at the penitentiary Devore broke away from the officer. Hadley fired once but the shot went wild, and he pursued the prisoner.

As the fugitive reached the west wall of the prison, Hadley shot a second time but missed again.

Two guards at the penitentiary, Harold Whetstone and Captain Elmer Callahan, entered the street from a side exit in the prison wall and headed off the prisoner. Callahan fired one shot but it went wild also.

Devore then dropped to the ground and surrendered.

Hadley said that Devore twisted the chain to two times during the trip from Steubenville. He had nothing but his hands to use, the officer said.

Devore was paroled on June 20, 1928 after serving part of a one-to-two-year sentence for using an automobile without the owner's consent.

Police said that Devore robbed a grocery store at Toronto, near Steubenville, a month ago. Hadley went after him but Devore escaped while being brought to the prison.

MAN PERISHES IN HOUSE FIRE

AKRON, O., Dec. 6.—Trapped when a fire broke out in his home, John Hall, 40, was burned to death here today.

Spreading rapidly, the blaze had gained such a considerable headway when firemen arrived at the scene that they were unable to bring it all to safety.

THRILLING REPORT OF CAPTURE BY BANDITS REVEALED BY WOMEN

GIVE A JOB!

HAVE you a job? If you didn't have one, how much would you give to get one?

The ratio of your desire should be the measure of your charity.

The Gazette, however, is not asking charity. If you are employed you surely can find at least a small job that would help some jobless person during these pre-Christmas days.

Any job, temporary or permanent, even for a few hours, even though it pays little, may help some man with a family to feed, some woman attempting to feed hungry children, or some youngster anxious to help the family purse.

If you have such a job, the Gazette will advertise it for you free of charge in order to put you in touch with the jobless. Just write it out on the blank on the classified page, designate whether you want male or female help, and add your name, address or telephone number. We will do the rest free of charge.

DROUGHT RELIEF IS NEAR FULFILLMENT AT SENATE SESSION

Committee Reports Favorably On Bill Providing Fund

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Authorization of the $60,000,000 drought relief appropriation moved near fulfillment today with the announcement that the senate agriculture committee will report favorably, that bill, when the senate resumes sessions Monday.

The bill, a joint resolution, sponsored by Senator McNary (R) of Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee, provides the sum shall be available to farmers in the twenty-two drought stricken, not only for the purchase of seed, fertilizer and food for work animals, but food for humans as well, and the lending of other aid necessary to drought sufferers.

The McNary measure differs with one he proposed on behalf of the administration and in accordance with the budget estimate in respect to the provision for human relief, as to the amount, and as to storm relief.

The administration measure provided for an appropriation of only $25,000,000, eliminated provision for the money to be used for food for impoverished farmers and their families, and ignored relief to storm stricken areas.

The committee during a lengthy hearing on a group of drought relief bills yesterday, expressed its patience over the desire of the administration to limit the appropriation to the smaller amount, and the bill providing the $60,000,000 was approved unanimously.

The committee discarded a bill by Sen. Robinson (D) of Arkansas, also providing for a $60,000,000 appropriation. His bill would have authorized the secretary of agriculture to advance to any state in the drought area $5,000,000 for road construction, and give employment to farmers unable to find other work because of conditions resulting from the drought and the national unemployment situation.

The McNary resolution, as did that of Robinson, provides for administration of the appropriation by the secretary of agriculture. The loans would be made without the necessity for the farmer to have credit. The government would accept a first lien on the farmers' crops of 1931, under the resolution.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The annual cry of the envious against the immunity to the prohibition law granted members of the diplomatic corps burst forth today, much to the embarrassment of the state department.

The McNary resolution, as did that of Robinson, provides for administration of the appropriation by the secretary of agriculture. The loans would be made without the necessity for the farmer to have credit. The government would accept a first lien on the farmers' crops of 1931, under the resolution.

Police and prohibition agents reported to the federal district attorney's office they have seen numerous persons drinking publicly in restaurants.

AMERICAN WOMAN AND NURSE SUBJECTED TO PERILS IN CHINA

By JOHN GOETTE

PEIPING, Dec. 6.—The hardships and perils of a forty-day journey from interior China to Peiping and capture by bandits after a spirited battle between the hill nomads and a Mongol escort were related today by the released American missionary, Mrs. H. D. Hayward, of Seattle, and her companion Miss E. Gomersall, of England, on their arrival here.

The weary travelers were received by the American consul, Mrs. Hayward, whose object in making the long trip to Peiping was to undergo hospital treatment, at once while Miss Gomersall, her British nurse, is expected to venture back to her post in interior China soon.

Relating their thrilling story of adventure, Mrs. Hayward said they utilized all means of travel after leaving Luanchow from camels to oxcarts, skin rafts, boats, automobiles and trains. Walking ahead of their jogging oxcarts partly for comfort and exercise constituted part of their journey.

In Kansu province the women were suddenly set upon by a yelling band of mounted bandits, who swooped out of the hills and attacked the Mongol escort. For a time the latter fought off their attackers, but in the end they took to their heels.

The bandits galloped up and seized Mrs. Hayward by the arm, forcing her to stumble alongside a trotting horse. She was stripped of all her outer clothing and robbed of her baggage. The same happened to Miss Gomersall.

They expected to be held for ransom, but unexpectedly the Mongols returned and surprised the bandits, chasing them off.

Their troubles, however, were not over yet. The bandits hovered around the Mongol camp, waiting for the party to venture out in the open. For eight days and nights Mrs. Hayward and Miss Gomersall sat huddled in a tiny mountain hut with nothing to eat but stale gruel. The bandits remained in plain sight.

Finally, four armed automobiles and a Chinese cavalry detachment sent by Anglo-Americans in Pootowchen, thirty miles distant, sallied forth and rescued them.

"I consider it miraculous that we escaped winter-long captivity," Miss Gomersall said. "The Mongols and brigands riding around each other in a wide circle when attacking reminded of Indian warfare scenes. It was just like it."

And then someone informed him that his seat was in almost the exact center of the U. S. C. rooting section.

STEAM SHOVELS ARE BUSY AS OBJECTION TO BUILDING ENDS

Tax Payer Will Not Appeal Decision In Injunction

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6.—With the last legal obstacle removed, steam shovels were put to work on the site excavating the new state office building here today, preparatory to the inauguration of construction activities.

The way was paved for the erection of the building yesterday when counsel for Thomas W. Dent, a local taxpayer, informed Attorney General Gilbert Bettman that no appeal would be made to the Ohio supreme court from the action of the Franklin County courts which rejected Dent's suit to prevent the use of Georgia marble in the construction of the building.

Dent had claimed in his suit that sandstone, or other Ohio material was required under the laws of the state.

Only one other legal entanglement hinders the development of the new statehouse. REPUBLICAN PARTY FACES DISSENSION OVER "DICTATION"

Neutrals Attempt To Prevent Split; Xenian Outspoken

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6.—Dissension over "alleged party dictation" which has disrupted the G. O. P. membership in both the Ohio senate and the house of representatives, today threatened to assume serious proportions for the state organization of the Republican party as a whole.

The outlook was none too favorable as party "neutrals" accursed from one to the other of the embittered miscreants, seeking to effect a truce, but hope was maintained, and in some cases confidently predicted, that by the time the state legislature convenes "all will be well."

One thing was virtually certain today, and that was that a showdown house of representatives caucus next week on whether so-called "boss-lobbyists" or the membership itself will rule the G. O. P. house organization in the impending general assembly.

The revolt against alleged party dictation had its inception last Tuesday in the majority senate caucus when five insurgents from north central Ohio counties refused to attend the caucus. The senate's difficulties, however, it was learned today from a reliable source, are well on the way to being patched up.

Although admittedly worried over the none too pleasant situation in the house membership, some of the more optimistic party adherents believe that "everything will work out all right."

The senate, in staging its revolt, carefully couched its insurgency behind veiled statements. The house insurgents, however, were not so meek. They came out in the open and pointedly named "the Hamilton county gang" as being responsible for the party's ills, whereas the senate merely attacked "the dictation of an alleged leader."

"The powers behind the gubernatorial throne," were identified by Representative R. D. Williamson, veteran Xenia politician. He named them as Fred Schneller, former state chairman of Cincinnati; Edward Schorn, present state G. O. P. chairman and director of commerce in Governor Cooper's cabinet; Harry D. Silver, Eaton, director of finance; Mal S. Daugherty, Washington Court House and O. C. Gray, Cadiz, state bank superintendent.

Just as the senate insurgency grouped against the selection of Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville, as floor leader, the house revolted plan to fight the re-election of Arthur Hamilton, Lebanon, the representatives' floor leader in the last session.

The insurgents' candidate is Charles H. Jones of Jackson, who amplified Williamson's charges against the "Hamilton County Gang." Jones charged that "boss-lobbyists" were backing the election of Hamilton and called upon members-elect to defeat their purpose.

The effect of this wrangling on the party among the Republican membership in the impending general assembly was a matter of speculation among political observers today.

Indications pointed to a sharp party split into northern Ohio and Southern Ohio divisions, unless some manner of a compromise is called to weld back together what dissension over party policies and chagrin over the most unpleasant election—from a Republican's standpoint—of November 4, tore assunder.

Congressman James T. Begg looms as the outstanding leader of the northern Ohio faction, while Secretary of State Clarence Brown will undoubtedly guide the state's "southern Republicans."

And, of course, between the two of them lies the opening for a "dark horse" to step in and possibly Governor Cooper may again take advantage of the split.

MYSTERIOUS LETHAL FUMES INVADE MEUSE VALLEY; MANY FLEE

Relief Rushed To Stricken Section; Explanation Sought By Government; Peasants In Panic; More Deaths Feared

LIEGE, Belgium, Dec. 6.—Government health authorities aided by army medical corps details, physicians and scientists worked frantically today to unravel the terrifying death mystery borne into picturesque Meuse Valley by a heavy yellow fog, which already has caused sixty-four deaths.

An increase in fatalities was feared as a house-to-house investigation was conducted in the affected region from Liege along the Meuse River to the fortified city of Namur, blood-soaked battleground that smoked and trembled under the onslaughts of invading armies in the first days of the World War.

A compilation of fatality cases furnished by municipal officers showed that of eight towns hard hit, the municipality of Engis, five miles from here, suffered the worst blow. Fourteen deaths were recorded there within twenty-four hours, centering all investigations on that spot.

The remaining fatalities were reported as follows: Fiemalle-Grande, four; Yvoe, five; Jemeppe, ten; Otte, seven; Amay, eight and Arfin, eight.

Approximately 300 persons were rushed to hospitals, many of them in dangerous condition.

LIVESTOCK KILLED
The village of Ougree reported ten persons seriously ill and numerous cases were under treatment in other hospitals.

Livestock suffered extensively, beasts and cattle dropping suddenly to the ground. The shaken peasants drove them into kitchens, cellars and living rooms in the hope of averting complete disaster.

Autopsies were conducted today to help establish the real death cause, tentatively ascribed to coal damp and dense fog which permeated the valley for the past four days. It was pointed out that those suffering from cardiac troubles or respiratory afflictions such as asthma were first to succumb.

The countryside scene of many famed European legends, was thrown into a panic by the mystifying deaths. Scores of the 4,000 peasants comprising the largest part of its population fled in terror to Liege, recalling the war days when refugees poured into the city.

While the government took extraordinary measures to combat the baffling death fog, rushing (Continued on Page Eight)

PEASANTS IN PANIC OVER PLAGUE WHICH CLAIMS HEAVY TOLL
Engis Mayor Explains Invisibile Killer In Valley

LIEGE, Belgium, Dec. 6.—The mayor of Engis, the town near here where fourteen of the sixty-four deaths from the mysterious fog malady have occurred, today gave the following interview to international news service over the telephone.

"The whole of my little town is terror-stricken. My poor people do not know what to do, where to go to escape the invisible killer. Nobody seems to know the cause of this plague, but in our minds we associate it with the fog, which has lain over the valley for the past few days."

"We have fourteen dead and sixty in the hospital, besides hundreds that are suffering from the disease but not enough to be given accommodation in the crowded hospital."

"The symptoms are pain in the throat and chest and a severe dry hacking cough that gives one no rest."

"I do not think the theory of German poison gas buried in the neighborhood, corrupting the air very good. The German gas was not stored in the valley itself, but further on, and in any case it could not pollute the countryside for twenty miles."

"The fog has no smell and no apparent taste. My doctor considered the poison gas theory to be together with his colleagues, but he remains of the opinion that the affair is entirely mysterious."

"Today there will be a meeting of local authorities and doctors to look deeper into the cause."

"Families living in mansions, the nuns in the convent and the poor all suffered. The people are keeping their houses shut—those who haven't fled—because they are afraid to let in the air. They haven't slept because they are afraid of death overtaking them, while if they were awake and felt the symptoms they could go to the hospital."

"You see, monsieur, it is all so terrible!"

SCIENTISTS GIVE FOG THEORIES

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Eminent scientists today advanced two theories on the possible cause of death in the fog which swept across the Meuse valley in Belgium.

Dr. Streel, poison authority who rushed to the stricken area to attend the victims, telephoned the London Morning Post the following opinion:

"No absolutely healthy persons were affected. I think the mystery will be dispelled when we investigate the fog itself. Perhaps frozen particles of moisture in the air—this has been known—caused lung trouble which hastened death."

Prof. J. B. S. Haldane of Cambridge University, suggested that the deaths were due to some form of plague.

"It sounds something like the 'black death,'" he said. "I do not think it was war gas, because the fatalities have occurred over a wide area and in many villages. It is possible that the recent floods in the vicinity have had something to do with spreading a pestilence."

The "black death" he mentioned was the bubonic plague which swept across Europe in the fourteenth century, killing 25,000,000 people, or approximately one-fourth of the population.

DENTIST, BANKER RIES
NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 6.—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow afternoon for Dr. David Boyd Debut, 53, prominent dentist and banker, who died yesterday from pneumonia five days after the death of his mother, Mrs. Mary Debut. Dr. Debut became ill last Monday.

NEIGHBORS RESCUE WOMEN FROM BLAZE
CLEVELAND, Dec. 6.—Two neighbors today were credited with having saved the lives of two women, one of them a noted artist, from a fire which swept through a Cleveland Heights home.

While one nearby resident attracted their attention that the house was on fire, another ran for a ladder and brought Adeline Cuneo and her mother, Mrs. Frank Cuneo, safely to the ground. The fire had gained considerable headway in the house before the two women, who were on the second floor at the time, noticed the flames and smoke and all exits were cut off.

Miss Cuneo is a landscape painter whose work has been exhibited numerous times in art galleries in Cleveland and other cities.

Damage resulting from the fire was estimated at $4,500. Several paintings were destroyed.

NOTRE DAME BATTLE WITH TROJANS WILL DRAW 90,000 FANS

Southern California Favored In Bets; Field Is Dry

By GEORGE T. DAVIS
I. N. S. Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6.—In a setting that rivaled anything in the history of football, Southern California and Notre Dame today commanded the attention of the entire sporting world as they prepared to write the most blazing chapter in gridiron history.

It was a gala holiday crowd as the vanguard of 90,000 spectators, the largest number ever to witness a game in Los Angeles, gathered at the coliseum.

The eyes and ears of the whole nation focused on this battle for supremacy, which was to be played on a dry, fast greensward beneath a warm California sun.

On one side was Notre Dame, one of the four undefeated teams of the year.

On the other was Southern California, which, though beaten by Washington State, has been characterized by Howard Jones as the greatest he ever has coached.

And, strange as it might seem, the defeated team ruled a favorite over the one with an unblemished record, odds on the Trojans ranging from 10 to 5 to 1.

Jones said that he doesn't see any reason for his team to rank as such a favorite.

Knute Rockne is more direct in his pre-game opinion.

"I realize that without Joe Savoldi and Moon Mullins we haven't much chance to win but you'll see a real ball game. We haven't given up hope, remote as it may be, and we'll be in there with no alibis, win or lose."

Nelson Escaped To Prevent Trial On Robbery Case

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Matthew's spectacular delivery of six lunatics was engineered by a former inmate who escaped from the institution on the eve of his being pronounced sane and fit to face re-trial for robbery, Dr. Raymond F. C. Kiehl, superintendent of the state hospital, said today.

He explained that when he was with two gunmen, had somehow learned that we no longer considered him insane. He knew what this meant—a new hearing and the possibility of a stiff prison sentence in a penitentiary. About two weeks ago, before we communicated with the prosecuting attorney, he escaped. Apparently he missed the comrades of the men for whom he returned. He took desperate efforts—that succeeded—to renew old acquaintanceships."

Today eleven armed guards were thrown about the hospital grounds in preparation for the possible re-appearance of Nelson. This was caused by the assertion of Nelson, who before fleeing with his friends told several other patients:

"Cheer up, boys. I'll come back and get more of you!"

Meanwhile Rochester police were hunting for Harry Gordon, the "mad butcher." A cord was thrown about his home in fear that Gordon would return to continue his killings under the delusion he is divinely inspired.

AVIATRIX FLIES TO RECOVER PLANE

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6.—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, daring Australian aviatrix, today boarded a Curtiss plane for Andros Island.

Arriving at Andros, she will return to Miami in her plane, "The Bullet," in which she was forced to land several days ago on the Havana-Miami hop of her return Pittsburgh-Havana round-trip flight.

The plane, which she was compelled to land in the bush of the island, had been repaired.

Mrs. Keith-Miller will spend tomorrow in Miami, and will take off Monday to complete her flight to Pittsburgh.

MOTHER KILLS TWO CHILDREN WHILE CRAZED

Two Others Escape; Woman In Custody In Hospital

CHESTER, Pa., Dec. 6.—Believed temporarily crazed by poverty and worry over the future of her four small children Mrs. Ida Twadell, 38, was held for observation in the Chester Hospital today after she killed two of her little tots late last night.

Frightened at the tragedy before their eyes the other two children escaped by running to the homes of neighbors.

The two victims are believed to have been battered with a sash weight then drowned in the bathtub. Their bodies were found floating in the bathtub by their father when he returned home from work.

Nearly lay a sashweight and butcher knife which the crazed woman is believed to have used in the executions.

"I had to do it," the mother screamed when the tragedy was discovered. "I couldn't bear to let them grow up without an education."

The bodies of the two tots, Kenneth, six months, and Herbert, 2, were in the city morgue, while the other children, Violet, 6, and Clarence, 4, were in the care of neighbors. The father, Lafayette Twadell, was overcome by the tragedy.

PRISONER FAILS IN DARING ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE OFFICERS

Breaks Chain And Runs Outside Walls Of Ohio Pen

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6.—Donald Devore, 25-year-old parole violator of Steubenville, was safely confined behind the walls of Ohio penitentiary here today despite a daring attempt to escape officers who returned him to the state prison late Friday afternoon.

Devore broke a chain by which he was held and ran several hundred yards before he was halted by bullets fired by two men.

The youth was brought here by H. E. Hadley, parole officer. As their automobile arrived at the penitentiary Devore broke away from the officer, Hadley fired once but the shot went wild, and he pursued the prisoner.

As the fugitive reached the west wall of the prison, Hadley shot a second time but missed again.

Two guards at the penitentiary, Harold Wheatstone and Captain Elmer Callahan, entered the street from a side exit in the prison wall and headed off the prisoner. Callahan fired one shot but it went wild also.

Devore then dropped to the ground and surrendered.

Hadley said that Devore twisted the chain in two sometime during the trip from Steubenville. He had nothing but his hands to use, the officer said.

Devore was paroled on June 20, 1928 after serving part of a one-to-two-year sentence for using an automobile without the owner's consent.

Police said that Devore robbed a grocery store at Toronto, near Steubenville, a month ago. Hadley went after him but Devore escaped while being brought to the prison.

MAN PERISHES IN HOUSE FIRE

AKRON, O., Dec. 6.—Trapped when a fire broke out in his home, John Hall, 40, was burned to death here today.

Spreading rapidly, the blaze had gained such a considerable headway when firemen arrived at the scene that they were unable to bring Hall to safety.

Witnesses said Hall was awakened shortly after the fire broke out and was overcome by smoke.

STORE DAMAGED BY BOMB IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Damage estimated at $500 was wrought today when a black powder bomb exploded in the doorway of a south side variety store.

Besides blowing in the store front and scattering stock about the floor the explosive shattered several windows in surrounding residences and stores and roused the neighborhood.

Joseph Marks, proprietor of the wrecked store, was able to give police no clues which might explain the blast.

THRILLING REPORT OF CAPTURE BY BANDITS REVEALED BY WOMEN

GIVE A JOB!

HAVE you a job? If you didn't have one, how much would you give to get one?

The ratio of your desire should be the measure of your charity.

The Gazette, however, is not asking charity. If you are employed you surely can find at least a small job that would help some jobless person during these pre-Christmas days.

Any job, temporary or permanent, even for a few hours, even though it pays little, may help some man with a family to feed, some woman attempting to feed hungry children, or some youngster anxious to help the family purse.

If you have such a job, the Gazette will advertise it for you free of charge in order to put you in touch with the jobless.

Just write it out on the blank on the classified page, designate whether you want male or female help, and add your name, address or telephone number.

We will do the rest free of charge.

Relating their thrilling story of adventure, Mrs. Hayward said they utilized all means of travel after leaving Luanchow from camels to ox carts, skin rats, boats, automobiles and trains. Walking ahead of their jogging ox carts partly for comfort and exercise constituted part of their journey.

In Kansai province the women were suddenly set upon by a yelling band of mounted bandits, who swooped out of the hills and attacked the Mongol escort. For a time the latter fought off their attackers, but in the end they took to their heels.

The bandits galloped up and seized Mrs. Hayward by the arm, forcing her to stumble alongside a trotting horse. She was stripped of all her outer clothing and robbed of her baggage. The same happened to Miss Gomersall.

They expected to be held for ransom, but unexpectedly the Mongols retained and surprised the bandits chasing them off.

Their troubles, however, were not over yet. The bandits hovered around the Mongol camp, waiting for the party to venture out in the open. For eight days and nights Mrs. Hayward and Miss Gomersall sat huddled in a tiny mountain hut, with nothing to eat but stale gruel. The bandits remained in plain sight.

Finally, four armed automobiles and a Chinese cavalry detachment sent by Anglo-Americans in Pootowen, thirty miles distant, sallied forth and rescued them.

"I consider it miraculous that we escaped winter-long captivity," Miss Gomersall said. "The Mongols and brigands riding around each other in a wide circle when attacking reminded of Indian warfare scenes. It was just like it."

The committee discarded a bill by Sen. Robinson (D) of Arkansas, also providing for a $60,000 appropriation. His bill would have authorized the secretary of agriculture to advance to any state in the drought area $5,000,000 for road construction, and give employment to farmers unable to find other work because of conditions resulting from the drought and the national unemployment situation.

The McNary resolution, as did that of Robinson, provides for administration of the appropriation by the secretary of agriculture. The loans would be made without the necessity for the farmer to have credit. The government would accept a first lien on the farmers' crops of 1931, under the resolution.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Authorization of the $60,000,000 drought relief appropriation moved nearer fulfillment today with the announcement that the senate agriculture committee will report favorably, that bill, when the senate resumes sessions Monday.

The bill, a joint resolution, sponsored by Senator McNary (R) of Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee, provides the sum shall be available to farmers in the twenty-two drought states, not only for the purchase of seed, fertilizer and food for work animals, but food for humans as well, and the lending of other aid necessary to drought sufferers.

The McNary measure differs with one he proposed on behalf of the administration and in accordance with the budget estimate in respect to the provision for human relief, as to the amount, and as to storm relief.

The administration measure provided for an appropriation of only $25,000,000, eliminated provision for the money to be used for food for impoverished farmers and their families, and ignored relief to storm-stricken areas.

The committee during a lengthy hearing on a group of drought relief bills yesterday, expressed impatience over the desire of the administration to limit the appropriation to the smaller amount, and the bill providing the $60,000,000 was approved unanimously.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The annual cry of the millions against the immunity to the prohibition law granted members of the diplomatic corps burst forth today, much to the embarrassment of the state department.

Policemen and prohibition agents reported to the federal district attorney's office they have seen numerous persons drinking publicly in restaurants but each produced diplomatic credentials when approached. They asked instructions but were told nothing can be done as diplomats are not obliged to obey American laws.

The names of the diplomats who are said to have openly flouted the dry law were not announced but the files of the state department are being scanned today to see if those approached are accredited representatives of foreign countries.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6.—The most unlucky fellow in town was revealed today in the person of Father O'Donnell, enthusiastic supporter of Notre Dame.

For some time, Father O'Donnell had been attempting to get a ticket to the U. S. C. Notre Dame game. Today he had one. And then someone informed him that his seat was in almost the exact center of the U. S. C. rooting section.

STEAM SHOVELS ARE BUSY AS OBJECTION TO BUILDING ENDS

Tax Payer Will Not Appeal Decision In Injunction

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6.—With the last legal obstacle removed, steam shovels were put to work on the site excavating the new state office building here today, preparatory to the inauguration of construction activities.

The way was paved for the erection of the building yesterday when counsel for Thomas W. Dent, a local taxpayer, informed Attorney General Gilbert Betman that no appeal would be made to the Ohio supreme court from the action of the Franklin county courts which rejected Dent's suit to prevent the use of Georgia marble in the construction of the building.

Dent had claimed in his suit that sandstone, or other Ohio material was required under the laws of the state.

Only one other legal entanglement hinders the development of the new statehouse. It is a case now before the supreme court relative to the appeal of Fred Greene, another Columbus taxpayer, who seeks to prevent the city of Columbus from donating three small parcels of land to the state as a part of the site.

The lower courts rejected Greene's suit. The supreme court was expected to announce its decision in the case soon.

Greene's case does not interfere with the construction activities of the new office building because the land involved forms a part of the open grounds around the proposed structure.

Just as the senate insurgency grouped against the selection of Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville, as floor leader, the house revolvers plan to fight the reelection of Arthur Hamilton, Lebanon, the representatives' floor leader in the last session.

The insurgents' candidate is Charles H. Jones of Jackson, who amplified Williamson's charges against the "Hamilton County Gang." Jones charged that "boss-lobbyists" were backing the election of Hamilton and called upon members-elect to defeat their purpose.

The effect of this wrangling on the party among the Republican membership in the impending general assembly was a matter of speculation among political observers today.

Indications pointed to a sharp party split into northern Ohio and southern Ohio divisions, unless some manner of a compromise is called to weld back together what dissension over party policies and chagrin over the most unpleasant election—from a Republican standpoint—of November 4, tore asunder.

Congressman James T. Begg looks as the outstanding leader of the northern Ohio faction, while Secretary of State Clarence Brown will undoubtedly guide the state's "southern Republicans."

And, of course, between the two of them lies the opening for a "dark horse" to step in and possibly Governor Cooper may again take advantage of the split.

Miss Cuneo is a landscape painter whose work has been exhibited numerous times in art galleries in Cleveland and other cities.

Damage resulting from the fire was estimated at $4,500. Several paintings were destroyed.

MYSTERIOUS LETHAL FUMES INVADE MEUSE VALLEY; MANY FLEE

Relief Rushed To Stricken Section; Explanation Sought By Government; Peasants In Panic; More Deaths Feared

LIEGE, Belgium, Dec. 6.—Government health authorities aided by army medical corps details, physicians and scientists worked frantically today to unravel the terrifying death mystery borne into picturesque Meuse Valley by a heavy yellow fog, which already has caused sixty-four deaths.

An increase in fatalities was feared as a house-to-house investigation was conducted in the affected region from Liege along the Meuse River to the fortified city of Namur, blood-soaked battleground that smoked and trembled under the onslaughts of invading armies in the first days of the World War.

A compilation of fatality cases furnished by municipal officers showed that of eight towns hard hit, the municipality of Engis, five miles from here, suffered the worst blow. Fourteen deaths were recorded there within twenty-four hours, centering all investigations on that spot.

The remaining fatalities were reported as follows: Fiemalle-Grande, four; Yvoir, five; Jemeppe, ten; Otte, seven; Amay, eight and Averbode, eight.

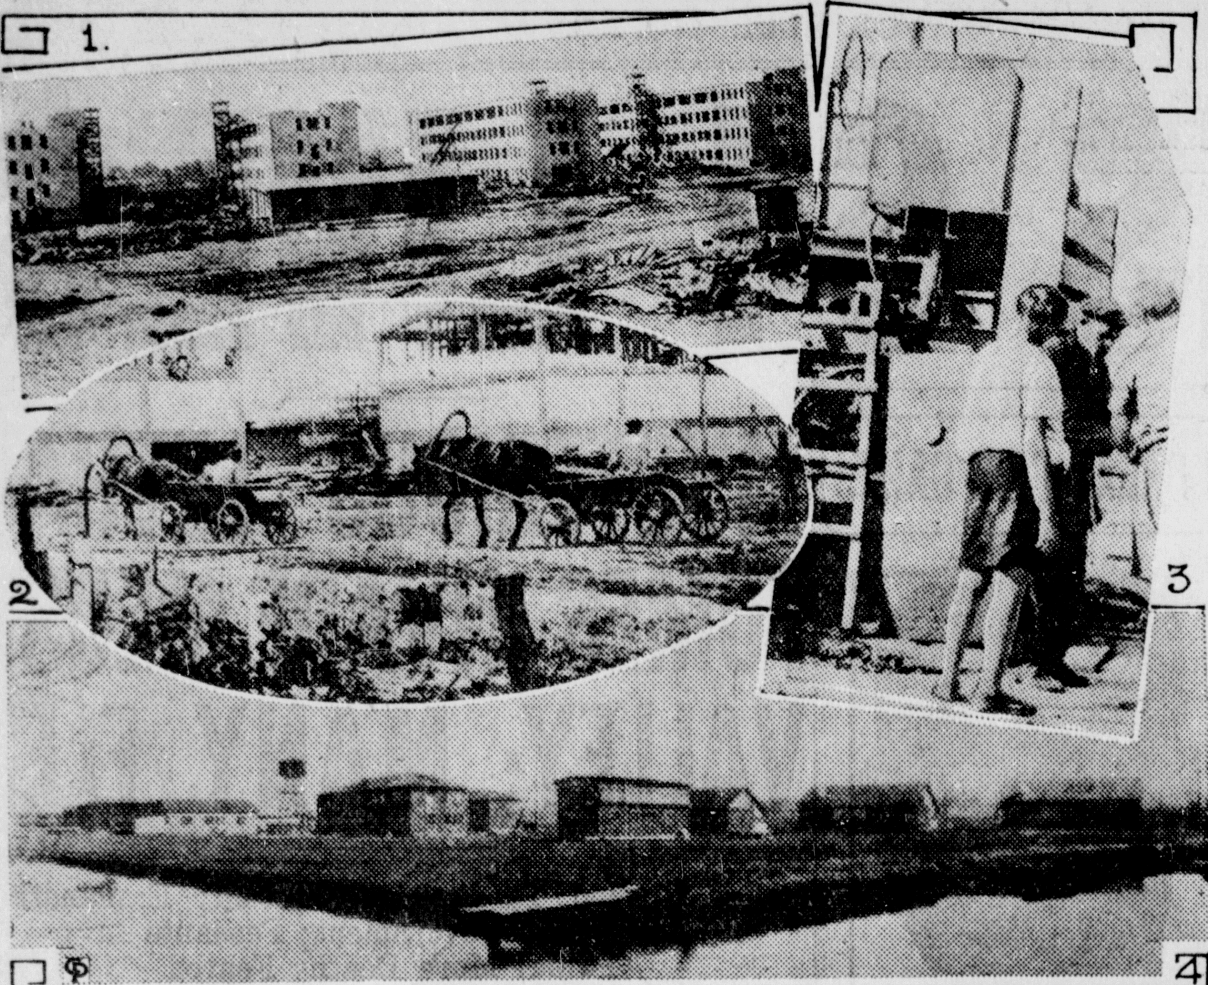

Approximately 300 persons were rushed to hospitals, many of them in dangerous condition.

LIVESTOCK KILLED
The village of Ougree reported ten persons seriously ill and numerous deaths.

Autopsies were conducted today to help establish the real death cause, tentatively ascribed to coal damp and dense fog which permeated the valley for the past four days. It was pointed out that those suffering from cardiac troubles or respiratory afflictions such as asthma were first to succumb.

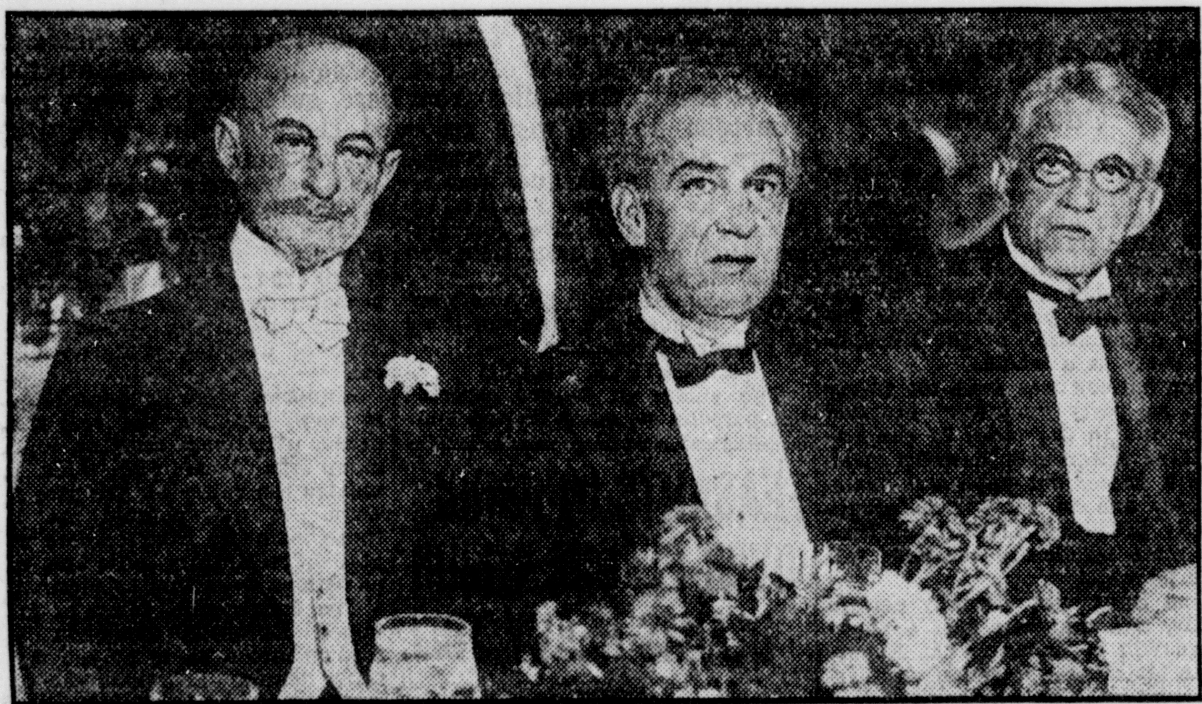

The countryside, scene of many famed European legends, was thrown into a panic by the mysterious deaths. Scores of the 4,000 peasants comprising the largest part of its population fled in terror to Liege, recalling the

RUSSIA'S "DETROIT" BEING RUSHED TO COMPLETION

Work on Russia's "Detroit," Austingrad, is being pushed so vigorously by engineers and builders from Cleveland, O., that completion of the $60,000,000 project is expected late next year. More than 10,000 Russian laborers are employed. The town, named after the American firm constructing it, is near Nizhni, Novgorod, 270 miles east of Moscow. It will have a motor plant capable of turning out 150,000 Ford cars and trucks annually. Photos show (1) a group of modern apartments; (2) part of the factory layout—note that horsedrawn carts, rather than trucks, are used; (3) woman laborer at work near a huge mortar mixer; (4) quarters of the American engineers supervising the construction.

PLAN AIRMAIL LINE TO EUROPE

Plans for an airmail line between the United States and Europe are being discussed by the leading international airways companies of the United States, England and France. Two organizations are considering establishing an airmail line to Europe, via Charleston, S. C., Bermuda and the Azores, as indicated in the map, above. This route, they believe, would eliminate considerable delay due to bad weather conditions which would be encountered along a more northerly route and the over-water distance would be shorter.

PLAN AIRMAIL LINE TO EUROPE

Plans for an airmail line between the United States and Europe are being discussed by the leading international airways companies of the United States, England and France. Two organizations are considering establishing an airmail line to Europe, via Charleston, S. C., Bermuda and the Azores, as indicated in the map, above. This route, they believe, would eliminate considerable delay due to bad weather conditions which would be encountered along a more northerly route and the over-water distance would be shorter.

MRS. BUNDY'S FIRST NET PUPIL

Her first tennis pupil since Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, former national champion, turned professional teacher, is her own small daughter, Dorothy. Mrs. Bundy was one of the greatest figures in women's amateur tennis. This summer, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of her first Wimbledon, England, victory, she fought her way to the semi-finals in the same tournament. Mrs. Bundy and Dorothy are shown at their Santa Monica, Cal., home, just after Mrs. Bundy announced her intention of turning professional.

GIRL GIVEN CREDIT FOR GRID FAME

Even if she didn't play in a single game, nor even coach, Mrs. Joe Almakary gets credit for helping Louisiana State varsity attain its fine record this season. She is the wife of the team's star backfield man. In order to enable Joe to stay in school and play football Mrs. Joe worked at the office of the highway commission every day in Baton Rouge.

Mrs. John P. White, E. Second St., entertained ten guests at an informal luncheon at her home Friday afternoon.

ONE ARRESTED, PAL ESCAPES; AFTER GAS STATION ROBBERIES

Alfred "Buck" Walthall, 37, Jamestown, was in Fayette County Jail Saturday following his arrest in Jamestown Friday night on a charge of robbing filling stations at Washington C. H. and Leesburg. Urie Allen, 24, Allentown, Fayette County, alleged accomplice of Walthall, escaped from officers following his arrest in Jamestown and is still being sought. They are accused of holding up a filling station at Leesburg, taking an unknown sum and then robbing a station at Washington C. H. of $7 or $8 while Washington police were looking for them on the road leading into Washington from Leesburg. They are said to have used another road.

The pair was arrested by Marshal John Baughn of Jamestown, sheriff-elect of Greene County, as they drove into Jamestown in Walthall's car. The marshal took Allen from the machine first and turned him over to Tiffin Walter and Harry Hopkins, whom he had deputized to help him, but Allen broke and ran. Both men were reported to have used pistols in the hold-up but none was found on them when arrested. A shot gun was found in the back of the auto.

Walthall attempted to escape from the Jamestown jail while Marshal Baughn was telephoning Washington police shortly after he was locked up. He had climbed on top of his cell and was tearing the plaster from the ceiling when apprehended. Marshal Baughn found a pint of liquor on Walthall and Washington police found two gallons of whiskey at a point near Jonesboro where Walthall's car is said to have gone into a ditch and where the men replaced California license plates on the car with Ohio plates.

Walthall resisted arrest and will probably face a charge of carrying concealed weapons and resisting arrest here when the case in Washington has been disposed of, it is said. He had $13.33 in his possession when arrested. Both Walthall and Allen were accused here last winter of breaking into an inhabited dwelling but were never prosecuted.

The Pennsylvania Railroad girls' basketball team, which is being organized this week, will hold its first practice Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the state armory. All girls interested in the project are asked to report at that time.

Mr. Ray Cox, N. Galloway St., who underwent a serious operation several weeks ago and is now recuperating at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cox, N. King St., is able to be up and around the house.

Miss Helen Currie, W. Church St., is spending the week end at Miami University, Oxford, O., as the guest of her brother, Mr. Robert Currie. She will attend the Theta Pi fraternity Saturday evening.

Fire Chief Herman Fisher, Sheridan Drive, who received serious injuries several weeks ago while fighting a fire, is improving nicely, although he is still a patient at McClellan Hospital.

Mr. Carlton Lunsford, student at University of Cincinnati, is spending the week end here with his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Lunsford.

Xenia Camp, No. 7004, Modern Woodmen of America, will hold its regular meeting Monday evening. All members are requested to be present as business of importance will be transacted.

George F. Schlesinger, of Washington, D. C., former Xenian, managing director of the National Paving Brick Manufacturers' Association, former director of highways for the State of Ohio, and nationally known leader of the highway industry, will broadcast a speech "Highways of Prosperity" over station WLV, Cincinnati, at 5:45 p. m. Sunday, December 7.

Mr. Schlesinger is an alumnus of Ohio State University and one-time member of the civil engineering faculty there. During the war, he was employed by the government on construction of the Columbus Reserve Depot.

He entered the highway department as division engineer in the Cincinnati district, and rose rapidly until his appointment by former Governor Donahay as Director of Highways in 1925. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, a past-president of the Ohio Engineering Society and affiliated with many other organizations. He has made a distinct success in his present capacity in Washington, having come to this work in July, 1928.

THESE WOMEN!

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 6.—Entering a realm of sport heretofore indulged in exclusively by men, two girls' football teams clash today on a local gridiron, with regulation togs and everything.

The game takes place between members of two Deering High School sororities—Phi Kappa and Epsilon Tau Sigma. It was originally scheduled for Tuesday, but protests by city authorities and school officials brought about a postponement until today.

BARITONE SOLO IS FEATURE OF MUSIC

Prof. J. E. Balmer of the O. S. and S. O. Home, will sing a baritone solo as a special feature of the morning service Sunday at 10:30 o'clock at the First M. E. Church. The adult junior and children's choirs will each contribute a number to the musical program.

The adult choir will sing, "Praise Ye the Father," by Gounod; the junior choir will sing "O God My Heart is Fixed" by Alice Woodcock and the children's choir will sing, "Nature's Gifts" by Post.

CHOIR IS PLANNING SPECIAL PROGRAM

The chorus choir of Trinity M. E. Church will sing, "Lo, It is I," by Faure-Shelley and "More Love to Thee," by Oley Speaks, at the morning church services Sunday at 10:30 o'clock, it is announced.

Miss Junia Rankin, organist, will play, "Andante in A" by Henry Smart; "A Pastoral" by Bauvet and "Postlude" by Cappelan.

The choir is preparing a Christmas cantata entitled, "The Christ Child," by Hawley, to be presented Sunday evening, December 21. At this service the choir will appear in vestments for the first time.

POLICE INTERRUPT FOUR YEGGS AT WORK

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6.—Four alleged safe crackers, suspected of being involved in several recent safe robberies, were captured by police here today as they attempted to enter the rear door of the French Novelty Co.

The four gave themselves up to police when the officers threatened to fire upon them.

The men had partially sawed through the steel bars on the doors when apprehended by police. A complete set of burglar tools was seized.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN HOLD SOCIAL MEETING

Men of the Presbyterian Church enjoyed a delightful evening at the home of Mr. Paul E. Cox, N. King St. Thursday evening. Dr. Alfred Lippert, Columbus, was a guest at the meeting and talked interestingly on Africa, answering many questions asked by his hearers. Several stunts were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the committee in charge composed of the Messrs. F. L. Smith, Arthur V. Miller and Paul E. Cox. The meeting closed with a short business session at which Dr. Paul E. Cox, N. King St., presided. The following committee on nominations was appointed: The Messrs. H. E. Kierman, Dr. Marshall Best and Jurl E. Cox. The committee in charge of the next meeting is composed of the Messrs. D. D. Jones, George Tiffany and L. F. Clark.

BIBLE CLASS HOLDS DECEMBER PARTY

Forty members of the Woman's Adult Bible Class of the First M. E. Church and one visitor attended the December meeting at the church Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Jason Neel, president, presided at the meeting and Mrs. C. L. Spence conducted the devotional period.

After the business meeting a report was given by the committee in charge of Thanksgiving baskets. Plans were made for Christmas donations and members brought gifts to the meeting to be distributed at Christmas.

Mrs. Emma Eley gave an interesting talk on her visit to Salt Lake City and also gave a history of Brigham Young. Mrs. Elton Smith and Mrs. Edward Lauman presented a dialogue and Mrs. C. R. Stearns closed the program with a monologue.

LADIES AID SOCIETY ENTERTAINED FRIDAY

Thirty-two members of the Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church were delightfully entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. L. S. Dines and her mother, Mrs. Sarah Collins at their home on W. Third St. During a short business session plans were discussed for a market and apron sale on December 13.

It was announced that the January meeting will be in the form of an "antique party" at the home of Mrs. O. K. Probasco at the O. S. and O. E. Diner. Mrs. Probasco's assistants will be Mrs. C. Messenger and Mrs. Walter South. A social hour closed Friday's meeting and refreshments were served by Mrs. Dines and Mrs. Collins.

GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY ON BIRTHDAY THURSDAY

ONE ARRESTED, PAL ESCAPES; AFTER GAS STATION ROBBERIES

Alfred "Buck" Walthall, 37, Jamestown, was in Fayette County Jail Saturday following his arrest in Jamestown Friday night on a charge of robbing filling stations at Washington C. H. and Leesburg. Urle Allen, 24, Allentown, Fayette County, alleged accomplice of Walthall, escaped from officers following his arrest in Jamestown and is still being sought. They are accused of holding up a filling station at Leesburg, taking an unknown sum and then robbing a station at Washington C. H. of $7 or $8 while Washington police were looking for them on the road leading into Washington from Leesburg. They are said to have used another road.

The pair was arrested by Marshall shah John Baughn of Jamestown, sheriff-elect of Greene County, as they drove into Jamestown in Walthall's machine. The marshal took Allen from the machine first and turned him over to Tiffin Walter and Harry Hopkins, whom he had deputized to help him, but Allen broke and ran. Both men were reported to have used pistols in the hold-up but none was found on them when arrested. A shot gun was found in the back of the auto.

Walthall attempted to escape from the Jamestown jail while Marshall Baughn was telephoning Washington police shortly after he was locked up. He had climbed on top of his cell and was tearing the plaster from the ceiling when apprehended. Marshall Baughn found a pint of liquor on Walthall and Washington police found two gallons of whiskey at a point near Jonesboro where Walthall's car is said to have gone into a ditch and where the men replaced California license plates on the car with Ohio plates.

Walthall resisted arrest and will probably face a charge of carrying concealed weapons and resisting arrest here when the case in Washington is being disposed of, it is said. He had $13.33 in his possession when arrested. Both Walthall and Allen were accused here last winter of breaking into an inhabited dwelling but were never prosecuted.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptations, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished: But chiefly them that walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness, and despise government. Presumptuous are they, self-willed, they are not afraid to speak evil of dignities.—II Peter, ii, 9, 10.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR DOCTORS

A survey of opportunities in the medical profession has just been concluded on behalf of the U. S. Bureau of Education. It finds that there is a pronounced tendency on the part of medical students, to specialize in certain branches of medicine, which has resulted in keen competition among specialists. Every kind of disease has its own specialists, who devote themselves mostly to that kind of ailment, and seek to know every detail of its treatment.

Meanwhile it has been complained that general practitioners are growing scarce, particularly in the smaller towns. There are many rural communities without doctors, where people have to send many miles to call one, a situation which is a serious lack in the life of a community. There is everywhere a demand for physicians of the old family doctor type, who have had wide experience and can treat any disease with skill. It would seem from the above mentioned survey that so many specialists have been turned out, that this field has become overcrowded, and that many medical students might do better to become family doctors after the older type.

The use of automobiles greatly enlarges a doctor's field. He can cover five times the territory that a doctor could in former years.

The physicians of the country render a service of incomparable value. The profession needs the country's best brains. Obtaining a medical education is a costly proposition, and the life of the general practitioner is called a hard one. But it should be a very rewarding one. The doctor is the dear friend of hundreds of families, and they never forget the unstinted devotion which he gives. The people who choose this toilsome profession will find great rewards of affection, whether or not they make a good income.

THE DOWN AND OUTERS

Pathetic scenes are witnessed in many of the larger cities, at Salvation Army quarters, rescue missions, municipal relief stations, etc., where penniless people are given food and lodging. It is a sorry looking company one sees there, clothes seedy, morale weak or gone, faces depressed.

About half these people, probably, are perfectly capable of becoming good workers if they could have a regular job. Another half have such faults of will and disposition, that they are bound to be down and out permanently. Society should see that the better half of them get their chance, and it should warn the young folks against those vices that create down and outers.

Addition to intoxicating liquor, the dangerous drug habit, and main indolence, are the leading causes that make down and outers. Willingness to work and self control are the life lessons that the boys of Ohio must learn, if they wish to avoid the fate of down and outers.

CRIPPLING ACCIDENTS

Industrial accidents were responsible last year for 23,000 deaths and 3,000,000 injuries, and they cost $1,000,000,000. So says the secretary of commerce. The people have to pay for these costs. They are covered largely by workmen's compensation, which adds to the expense of producing the things we buy every day. And the death and crippling of all these workers limits the earning power of the country.

People who have seen the way many men will take chances in railroad yards and factories, will understand how safety appliances alone will not stop accidents. Some people are born reckless. They have been fated to a crippled life by their own refusal to take care of themselves.

The Los Angeles Times thinks the Great Auk became extinct because it was unable to fly. Well, we never saw an ostrich fly much; and, on the other hand, the pterodactyl could.

ALL of US

—By—
MARSHALL MASLIN

A REPROOF FROM THE BIRDS

Some of us live in muggy darkness. We do not believe that the sun ever will shine on us as it shines on other people. We look ahead, as we travel, to a spot where the sun is shining and we think: "By the time we get there, the sun will probably be behind a cloud. It always is for us—wherever we are." So we sit and wait for the sun to come to us.

I do not know why we live like that. It may be that we have been hurt when we were children and lost hope early and never learned how to build our lives into anything solid and shining. But I do know that many of us are stupid about our happiness. We wait for it to come our way—and it does not seek us out. So that, we think, proves we were wise in our doleful doubts.

But the other day I read two fine paragraphs about birds. Julian Huxley wrote them for the Atlantic Monthly and they tell a simple story about small winged creatures who are sometimes wiser than us. Here they are:

"I was staying at Witsun one year at a little inn on the Upper Thames. Under the eaves a number of house martins were building mud nests. I was interested to find out something of their courtship, but there had been no courting in evidence during the Saturday afternoon and evening. . . . I got up before dawn on the Sunday. To my surprise, there were no martins to be seen—none in or by their nests, none flying round. I walked round the place, and up and down the towpath, along which spread a faint mist from the river, and still saw nothing of my birds. Then from the barn came a single swallow, and flew up into the sky.

"I followed its flight with my eyes, and suddenly saw why I had failed to find the martins. They were all up there in the blue, circling round in company with some barn swallows and chimney swifts, from which I could distinguish them at the height they were flying. The sun had not yet risen where I stood on the solid earth; but had already reached the birds high above my head. And as the earth spun and the sun's rays approached its surface, the birds sank with them, twittering all the time; and finally the light struck the inn and flooded the meadows, and the birds dispersed, to the duties of the day."

Imagine birds loving their sun so profoundly, drawn so powerfully toward light and warmth that they leave their mud nests while the earth still is chill and dark, and ascend to greet their magnificent friend in swirls and dives and instinctive song.

I think there's a reproof from the birds in that blessed incident—and a hint for all of us who live in complaining misery and will not rise to any sort of happiness even when it shines and waits above our heads.

THE QUESTION BOX

—Central Press Wash. Bureau—

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What steps should one follow to become a citizen of the United States?

An alien is admitted to citizenship in the United States in the following manner: he shall declare on oath before the clerk of the county in which he resides, or the United States court, if convenient, at least two years before his admission and after he has reached the age of 18 years, that it is his bona fide intention to become a citizen of the United States and to renounce his allegiance to any foreign nation. Not less than two years, and not more than seven, after he has made this declaration, he must file a petition verified by at least two creditable witnesses, who are citizens and who have personally known the applicant to be a resident of the United States for at least five years continuously. Final action on the petition may not be made by the court until at least 90 days have elapsed after the filing of the petition.

Eucalyptus

From what country were Eucalyptus trees brought into California?

Eucalyptus trees were first introduced into California from Australia. Some of the species that are most highly prized in Australia have proved failures in California for various reasons. The most important species for commercial planting in California are said to be the blue gum, the sugar gum, the gray gum and the red gum.

Tapioca

What is tapioca? Sago, or pearl tapioca, is a fine grain form of the starch of cassava, a large, shrubby plant which is native of tropical America. This starch, dried quickly under the action of intense heat when in a semi-solid and moist condition, agglomerates into small, irregular masses which form the well known article of food called tapioca.

Suffrage Leader

For what is Carrie Chapman Catt noted?

Carrie Chapman Catt is one of the outstanding leaders of women in America. Her service in the National American Woman's Suffrage Association of which she has been president since 1915 and as president of the International Woman's Suffrage Alliance from 1904 to 1923 marked her as the most prominent figure in the woman's suffrage campaigns which led to the woman's suffrage amendment to the federal constitution proclaimed Aug. 26, 1920.

Author

When was Dr. Henry Van Dyke, the author, born, and where does he live at present?

Henry Van Dyke was born at Germantown, Pa., Nov. 10, 1852. His present address is Avalon, Princeton, N. J.

Bo-Broadway

—By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE—

NEW YORK. — Tammany Town is all set up over "shocking" conditions in the Police Department involving a lot of cops, lawyers, bondsmen and others who batted on what the copy readers love to refer to as "Vice."

The funny part of it is that most well-informed folk round town have known for the last ten years what's been going on and naturally supposed that the City Fathers also knew.

The really remarkable thing about the whole mess is the air of pained surprise on the Socratic phrases of the supposedly Well Informed.

I don't really think the ensuing paragraph is worth printing. The only reason I run it is because a near and dear friend—the woman I refer to as The Duchess—asked me to use it, and will probably make my life miserable if I don't. Here it is:

Albert Kiss has a furniture store on Second Ave., and next door to Albert Kiss lives Joseph Hug.

DEPENDS ON LOCATION

Tammany Town's leading hardware merchant advertises among his Christmas suggestions a Folding Bar, brass foot rail and all.

Why not?

As Al Capone puts it: "On de truck it's illegal. On a silver tray in de parlor, it's hospitality."

And, as Cal Coolidge says: "The chief ideal of the American people is idealism."

OFFICIAL WASHINGTON APPLAUDS HOOVER SLAP AT LABOR FEDERATION

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON. — Anyone who ever has seen a thoroughly cocksure boxer run with sickening suddenness into a terrific wallop can form a mental picture of the looks of officials at American Federation of Labor headquarters as they picked up the late editions of their evening newspapers the other day and read the announcement of President Hoover's appointment of William N. Doak to succeed James J. Davis as secretary of labor.

Of course it was a first page story.

On the inside pages of the same newspapers appeared accounts of the presence of retiring Secretary Davis at his last cabinet meeting earlier in the same day, together with the generally accepted surmise that Assistant Secretary White would serve at least 30 days as acting secretary. This, it was explained, was because President Hoover was at his wits' end to decide on a permanent appointment of a new cabinet member satisfactory to all labor interests. Hence it was assumed that he would take all the time allowed him by law before braving the threatened storm.

The appointment was announced so suddenly that editors were unable to get their earlier guesswork versions out of the insides of their papers speedily enough to prevent them from clashing with the real news on their own exterior final pink sport pages.

One must consider that only just before Thanksgiving President William Green of the American Federation of Labor had called at the White House to tell President Hoover of the Federation's irrevocable opposition to Doak for the labor secretaryship. Of Doak personally he said he thought very highly, but he added that the Federation would be satisfied with the appointment of none but a member of some labor union affiliated with its own organization.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, of which Doak is legislative representative in Washington, as well as editor of its official organ, "Railroad Trainmen," is not so affiliated. Having served this notice on the president, Green also told it to the White House newspaper correspondents, rubbing it in energetically.

Now that President Hoover has acted, perhaps it is permissible to say that there was considerable criticism among senators and representatives who already had arrived in Washington of this attitude of the American Federation. The Federation was readily conceded the right to urge candidates it favored or oppose those to which it objected, but was referred to as going too far in demanding a cabinet post exclusively for itself.

Nevertheless, there were few to prophesy that President Hoover would defy the Federation. Yet he did. Moreover, he did it in that left no doubt he meant it as a defiance—"Mr. Green's enunciation that appointments must come from one organization in fact imposes upon me a duty to maintain the principle of open and equal opportunity"—language it is hard to interpret otherwise than as implying that the president appointed Doak in large part to let Green and the Federation know they do not possess the dictatorial powers they seem to have believed they did possess.

Washington perhaps is a poor place to judge of a presidential policy's effect upon the country, but if the reaction I observe in congressional circles be regarded as a criterion, I would say the president's action in the Doak case promises to prove the most popular of his administration thus far—not from any hostility to the American Federation, but from the obviously general view at least on Capitol Hill that its dominant group in Washington grossly overstepped propriety in the present instance, and has been rebuked for it.

Indeed, I hear similar hints even from labor sources.

Peter's Adventures

—By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent—

A CHANCE TO TURN TRAITOR
In spite of the predicament in which he found himself, the boy could not help laughing. The Redskins were tumbling to the ground like so many ninepins. His trusty spike was standing him in good stead.

"Not so fast, my good Ants!" cried Peter. "I am only a Two-legs, to be sure, but I can fight with the best of you. Don't make any mistake! You will never take me alive without a struggle. You are many and I am only one, and maybe you can overpower me with your numbers, but there will be a lot of you who will never live to tell the tale. Think well before you attack, Redskins! Making an end of me may not be so easy as you think!"

Peter was taking no chances. Without waiting for the Red Ants' next move, he rushed at them and taken unawares, they fell back.

"Hey, stop that!" pleaded the leader. "My soldiers are no match for that terrible weapon of yours! We need an ally like you. It is foolish to fight against so powerful a foe. Will you join the Redskin army? Come now, boy, how about it?"

"I'm willing to declare a truce!" said Peter, looking steadily at Red Ant. "But how am I to know whether I can trust you? Actions speak louder than words, you know, and just a moment ago you were ready to tear me to pieces. What proof have I that you will not fly at me again the moment I am off guard?"

"No proof but my promise. I never go back on that!" declared the Red Ant leader, proudly. "Join our army and I will make you High Commander of the Spike Brigade."

Next: "True to a Lost Cause."

CABBAGE ROLL-UPS

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

One-half pound macaroni (break to five-inch lengths), one pound ground round steak, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons chili sauce, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one onion, grated, cabbage, Cook macaroni until tender, mix with meat, onion, seasonings and chili sauce. Carefully tear off leaves of cabbage, and in each place some of macaroni mixture. Roll leaves lengthwise, in finger shape, and the securely with light string. Cook in small amount of salted water for about 15 or 20 minutes. Drain carefully and serve with grated cheese if liked.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

—By MRS. MARY MORTON—

MENU HINT

Veal Loaf Scalloped Potatoes
Brown Bread
Cabbage Salad
With Thousand Island Dressing
Cranberry Jelly Pecan Pie
Coffee

This menu is enough for six people. It is mostly prepared in the oven.

Today's Recipes

Veal Loaf.—Two pounds ground veal, two eggs, three slices white bread, one-half cup milk, salt and pepper, one tablespoon butter. Use the juice of one lemon for flavoring.

Pecan Pie.—Two eggs, beaten well; one-fourth cup melted butter, one-half cup white sugar, one cup dark corn syrup, pinch of salt, one teaspoon vanilla, pecans. Bake in unbaked pie crust 25 minutes in slow oven. Remove and place pecans on top and bake 25 minutes more. Serve with whipped cream.

Suggestions

Toys That Can Be Washed
Powder puff material is the newest fabric for teddy bears and such-like toys for children. Animals made of it are soft as velvet and ever so "cuddly." But with a brush they may be washed off thoroughly with soap jelly and warm water, or with thick suds, rinsed and dried in a jiffy. It is better not to immerse them. The filling will not be injured, but if it is wet through it may take several days to dry.

Because of the demand for washable playthings, some of the other wooley Christmas toys are now so constructed that they can be washed with soap and water as often as necessary. Be sure to ask the shop's guarantee before buying, but in general, look for the "short-haired" animals and those in solid colors.

There is no longer any excuse for giving a child a toy that must remain dangerously dirty and germ-laden. A whole army of attractive stockinette, turkish toweling, composition, oilcloth, wood and rubber dolls and animals that take to water like the proverbial ducks are waiting for parents to choose from. They are painted and dyed in colors that are attractive and lasting.

Washable building blocks of wood, plain and painted, have new cousins made of rubber. A very recent arrival in the block family is a set of celluloid blocks for baby. They are hollow cubes that will rattle, in addition to serving the child's first constructive impulses, and are decorated with paints that cannot be sucked off and will not wash off.

If Christmas is to bring the playroom new furniture, it is not necessary to buy a plain porcelain or enamel topped table in order to insure its cleanliness. Pictures and charmingly colorful chintzes are now being put on table tops under a transparent enamel that can be scrubbed.

Doctor Quotes New Experiments

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The other morning when I was driving far out in the suburbs of my city I recognized a familiar figure walking vigorously along ahead. I overhauled this old friend whom I had not seen for years, and inquired the reason for the unusual activity. He explained that he had recently been examined by the medical department of his business organization and they found his blood pressure high.

Inasmuch as both he and I are getting fairly well along in years I averred this was not surprising. He told me then a thing which pleased me—to wit, that after the verdict had been given him he read article of mine about blood pressure. It was the report of the studies of Dr. Brown who found a considerable daily, weekly and seasonal variation in blood pressure in the same individual. My friend told me this had given him the greatest amount of comfort.

In the hope that more comfort will come from it, I abstract another recent set of studies in blood pressure.

They were made by Drs. Alvarez and Stanley. They did an interesting thing. They measured the blood pressure in six thousand prisoners and four hundred prison guards. Since these men were of all ages and lived decidedly under stable conditions, the results are interesting from the standpoint of average variations in blood pressure. One important feature of the work was that the guards had on the average a higher pressure than the prisoners. The guards thought they were being examined to decide whether they should keep their positions. This emotional stress probably caused the rise in their pressures. Such a finding is certainly of distinct importance to all agencies who take blood pressures on applicants for positions.

Another point of importance—that the prisoners were not, at the time the pressures were taken, users of alcohol. Their acquaintance with bootleggers was on the social plane, as cell-mates. Yet the average blood pressures were no different—either lower or higher—than comparable groups of men subject to all the temptations of a naughty world.

It required several readings to determine what Drs. Alvarez and Stanley called mean pressure. They found this to average 115, a little lower than life insurance companies give it. A number of prisoners had high blood pressure, and this occurred in those aged 20, as well as those aged 40. From this the investigators concluded that all those who have high blood pressure at the age of 40 had it at the age of 20. Their reasoning is not easy to see at this point and the conclusion is not easy to believe.

Cheerful Attitude Helps

—By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

To say that life is what you make it sounds quite trite. It is one of those old sayings that make us of this generation sneer a bit. It is quite too Pollyannish for us, and we don't believe it. It's an exploded theory, we insist.

And yet it is surprising what a difference our attitude toward our life and its problems makes. One person will write, and her letter will team with woe over the hardships of her lot. Another with much the same circumstances will answer seeming to really enjoy life, and making light of the troubles.

Which leads us to suspect that there may be something in the idea that a cheerful outlook will brush away many of the woes which is heir to it. It is certainly much pleasanter for those who have to live with us.

Some time ago a girl wrote that her life was so hard she was a nervous wreck. She did all the housework and her younger brothers and sisters wouldn't help her and she was so overworked and weary she wanted to die. The following letter from another girl in a similar position shows another side of the picture.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I have just finished reading a letter to you written by 'A Nervous Wreck.' She must not feel sorry for herself, because she will find out in the end that it does not get her anywhere. 'I suppose you wonder how I know. Well, Virginia Lee, I am 17 and have to keep house for two brothers and one sister. Parents are both dead and have been for quite a while and I have been doing housework for three years. I have six rooms and bath to do every day, and then the washing, ironing, cooking and baking. One of the other three might dry dishes after dinner, but that's all I expect them to do, because sister and brother work and the other brother goes to high school."

"I do all I can while everyone is out, still find enough time for pleasure, and so I enjoy myself evening after evening and find life is quite agreeable. 'Please tell 'Nervous Wreck' for me not to look at the dark side of life all the time, because life is short and it does not pay to be gloomy. One only grows older by sitting at home and thinking how tired one is from a day's work. We must all do our share, don't you?"

Truly Blue Bonnet. If the second boy cares for you, surely he can "speak for himself." Don't try to take him away from his girl friend, if they are going together "steady." Possibly your people have heard something about the first boy that makes them consider him an undesirable friend for you. I think if you can keep from worrying about the matter it will naturally adjust itself.

Spilled Boy: As I recall the letter from the girl you speak of, she met this boy and he rushed her for a time, then met another girl at her house and since then has not dated the first girl. She liked the boy and was sorry. She admitted that she had been spoiled by much attention, hence the name. Sorry I haven't her letter from which to quote.

Brown Eyes: Of course tell the boy to wait a few years before thinking of marrying you. I think it would be nice to share part of your letters from the boy friend with your mother—the ones that would be of general interest. Ask your girl friend how she'll like keeping house without any money, doing the family washing, cleaning, cooking, etc., without funds? And ask her how it will seem to have no money for new clothes and things and no home? Tell her she better postpone her plans until after Christmas anyhow. Of course if she marries against her parents' wishes a person who is in no condition to support her, she can't expect them to take care of her, and she may go hungry, which isn't, after all, very romantic.

Men Ever Susceptible To Perfume

—By GLADYS GLAD—

I might say, without exaggeration, that almost every man is emotionally susceptible to perfume. Women have made use of perfume throughout the ages to enhance their loveliness in the eyes of men. Cleopatra, the Queen of Sheba, du Barry, Ninon de Lenclos, the Empress Josephine—all the famous beauties of history knew their perfume. Perfume is used more widely today than ever before in history. And, thanks to science, our modern perfumes far surpass the scents of the by-gone ages. The modern woman experiments until she finds the perfume that is best suited to her, and then has all the cosmetics and toilet accessories imbued with this scent.

One of the worst things you can do is to use a variety of fragrances at one time. Your perfume should be vitally YOU, should belong to you alone. I doubt whether anyone would like to admit that a conglomeration of rose, lilac, jasmine, lavender, violet and what-not is the fragrance that represents her personality. It's a beauty atrocity to mix the scents about yourself in this manner. And yet women who use highly-scented cosmetics often unwittingly do just that.

Some rouges, powders and lipsticks are so heavily scented that they simply can't be used, if you have your own individual perfume. And the woman who cares anything about the impression she makes wants her perfume to express her own individuality.

If you are going to use highly-scented cosmetics, don't use a powder of one fragrance, a cheek rouge of another, and a lipstick of still another. Most of the cosmetics have aided us to some extent by using the same scent in all their preparations. But if you insist upon mixing the brands of highly-scented rouges and powders, you will emanate a conglomeration of odors that will prove most unpleasant. If you want your perfume to retain its appeal by all means stick to one fragrance at a time!

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptations, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished. But chiefly they that walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness, and despise government. Presumptuous are they, selfwilled, they are not afraid to speak evil of dignities.—II Peter, ii, 9, 10.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR DOCTORS

A survey of opportunities in the medical profession has just been concluded on behalf of the U. S. Bureau of Education. It finds that there is a pronounced tendency on the part of medical students, to specialize in certain branches of medicine, which has resulted in keen competition among specialists. Every kind of disease has its own specialists, who devote themselves mostly to that kind of ailment, and seek to know every detail of its treatment.

Meanwhile it has been complained that general practitioners are growing scarce, particularly in the smaller towns. There are many rural communities without doctors, where people have to send many miles to call one, a situation which is a serious lack in the life of a community. There is everywhere a demand for physicians of the old family doctor type, who have had wide experience and can treat any disease with skill. It would seem from the above mentioned survey that so many specialists have been turned out, that this field has become overcrowded, and that many medical students might do better to become family doctors after the older type.

The use of automobiles greatly enlarges a doctor's field. He can cover five times the territory that a doctor could in former years.

The physicians of the country render a service of incomparable value. The profession needs the country's best brains. Obtaining a medical education is a costly proposition, and the life of the general practitioner is called a hard one. But it should be a very rewarding one. The doctor is the dear friend of hundreds of families, and they never forget the unstinted devotion which he gives. The people who choose this toilsome profession will find great rewards of affection, whether or not they make a good income.

THE DOWN AND OUTERS

Pathetic scenes are witnessed in many of the larger cities, at Salvation Army quarters, rescue missions, municipal relief stations, etc., where penniless people are given food and lodging. It is a sorry looking company one sees there, clothes seedy, morale weak or gone, faces depressed.

About half these people, probably, are perfectly capable of becoming good workers if they could have a regular job. Another half have such faults of will and disposition, that they are bound to be down and out permanently. Society should see that the better half of them get their chance, and it should warn the young folks against those vices that create down and outers.

Addiction to intoxicating liquor, the dangerous drug habit, and main indolence, are the leading causes that make down and outers. Willingness to work and self control are the life lessons that the boys of Ohio must learn, if they wish to avoid the fate of down and outers.

CRIPPLING ACCIDENTS

Industrial accidents were responsible last year for 23,000 deaths and 3,000,000 injuries, and they cost $1,000,000,000. So says the secretary of commerce. The people have to pay for these costs. They are covered largely by workmen's compensation, which adds to the expense of producing the things we buy every day. And the death and crippling of all these workers limits the earning power of the country.

People who have seen the way many men will take chances in railroad yards and factories, will understand how safety appliances alone will not stop accidents. Some people are born reckless. They have been fated to a crippled life by their own refusal to take care of themselves.

The Los Angeles Times thinks the Great Auk became extinct because it was unable to fly. Well, we never saw an ostrich fly much; and, in the other hand, the pterodactyl could.

A REPROOF FROM THE BIRDS

Some of us live in muggy darkness. We do not believe that the sun ever will shine on us as it shines on other people. We look ahead, as we travel, to a spot where the sun is shining and we think: "By the time WE get there, the sun will probably be behind a cloud. It always is for us—wherever we are." So we sit and wait for the sun to come to us.

I do not know why we live like that. It may be that we have been hurt when we were children and lost hope early and never learned how to build our lives into anything solid and shining. But I do know that many of us are stupid about our happiness. We wait for it to come our way—and it does not seek us out. So that, we think, proves we were wise in our doubtful doubts.

But the other day I read two fine paragraphs about birds. Julian Huxley wrote them for the Atlantic Monthly and they tell a simple story about small winged creatures who are sometimes wiser than us. Here they are:

"I was staying at Wilsun one year at a little inn on the Upper Thames. Under the eaves a number of house martins were building mud nests. I was interested to find out something of their courtship, but there had been no courting in evidence during the Saturday afternoon and evening. . . . I got up before dawn on the Sunday. To my surprise, there were no martins to be seen—none in or by their nests, none flying round. I walked round the place, and up and down the towpath, along which spread a faint mist from the river, and still saw nothing of my birds. Then from the barn came a single swallow, and flew up into the sky.

"I followed its flight with my eyes, and suddenly saw why I had failed to find the martins. They were all up there in the blue, circling round in company with some barn swallows and chimney swifts, from which I could distinguish them at the height they were flying. The sun had not yet risen where I stood on the solid earth; but had already reached the birds high above my head. And as the earth spun and the sun's rays approached its surface, the birds sank with them, twittering all the time; and finally the light struck the inn and flooded the meadows, and the birds dispersed, to the duties of the day."

Imagine birds loving their sun so profoundly, drawn so powerfully toward light and warmth that they leave their mud nests while the earth still is chill and dark, and ascend to greet their magnificent friend in swirls and dives and instinctive song.

I think there's a reproof from the birds in that blessed incident—and a hint for all of us who live in complaining misery and will not rise to any sort of happiness even when it shines and waits above our heads.

THE QUESTION BOX

Central Press Wash. Bureau

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What steps should one follow to become a citizen of the United States?

An alien is admitted to citizenship in the United States in the following manner: he shall declare on oath before the clerk of the county in which he resides, or the United States court, if convenient, at least two years before his admission and after he has reached the age of 18 years, that it is his bona fide intention to become a citizen of the United States and to renounce his allegiance to any foreign nation. Not less than two years, and not more than seven, after he has made this declaration, he must file a petition verified by at least two credible witnesses, who are citizens and who have personally known the applicant to be a resident of the United States for at least five years continuously. Final action on the petition may not be made by the court until at least 90 days have elapsed after the filing of the petition.

Eucalyptus

From what country were Eucalyptus trees brought into California?

Eucalyptus trees were first introduced into California from Australia. Some of the species that are most highly prized in Australia have proved failures in California for various reasons. The most important species for commercial planting in California are said to be the blue gum, the sugar gum, the gray gum and the red gum.

Tapioca

What is tapioca? Tapioca, or pearl tapioca, is a fine grain form of the starch of cassava, a large, shrubby plant which is native of tropical America. This starch, dried quickly under the action of intense heat when in a semi-solid and moist condition, aggregates into small, irregular masses which form the well known article of food called tapioca.

Suffrage Leader

For what is Carrie Chapman Catt noted? Carrie Chapman Catt is one of the outstanding leaders of women in America. OFFICIAL WASHINGTON APPLAUDS HOOVER SLAP AT LABOR FEDERATION

—CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Anyone who ever has seen a thoroughly cocksure boxer run with sickening suddenness into a terrific wall can form a mental picture of the looks of officials at American Federation of Labor headquarters as they picked up the late editions of their evening newspapers the other day and read the announcement of President Hoover's appointment of William N. Doak to succeed James J. Davis as secretary of labor.

Of course it was a first page story.

On the inside pages of the same newspapers appeared accounts of the presence of retiring Secretary Davis at his last cabinet meeting earlier in the same day, together with the generally accepted surprise that Assistant Secretary White would serve at least 30 days as acting secretary. This, it was explained, was because President Hoover was at his wits' ends to decide on a permanent appointment of a new cabinet member satisfactory to all labor interests. Hence it was assumed that he would take all the time allowed him by law before braving the threatened storm.

The appointment was announced so suddenly that editors were unable to get their earlier guesswork versions out of the insides of their papers speedily enough to prevent them from clashing with the real news on their own exterior final pink sport pages.

One must consider that only just before Thanksgiving President William Green of the American Federation had called at the White House to tell President Hoover of the Federation's irrevocable opposition to Doak for the labor secretaryship. Of Doak personally he said he thought very highly, but he added that the Federation would be satisfied with the appointment of none but a member of some labor union affiliated with its own organization.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen of which Doak is legislative representative in Washington, as well as editor of its official organ, "Railroad Trainmen," is not so affiliated. Having served this notice on the president, Green also told it to the White House newspaper correspondents, rubbing it in energetically.

Now that President Hoover has acted, perhaps it is permissible to say that there was considerable criticism among senators and representatives who already had arrived in Washington of this attitude of the American Federation. The Federation was readily conceded the right to urge candidates it favored or oppose those to which it objected, but was referred to as going too far in demanding a cabinet post exclusively for itself.

Nevertheless, there were few to prophesy that President Hoover would defy the Federation. Yet he did. Moreover, he did it in terms that left no doubt he meant it as a defiance—"Mr. Green's enunciation that appointments must come from one organization in fact imposes upon me a duty to maintain the principle of open and equal opportunity"—language it is hard to interpret otherwise than as implying that the president appointed Doak in large part to let Green and the Federation know they do not possess the dictatorial powers they seem to have believed they did possess.

Washington perhaps is a poor place to judge of a presidential policy's effect upon the country, but if the reaction I observe in congressional circles be regarded as a criterion, I would say the president's action in the Doak case promises to prove the most popular of his administration thus far—not from any hostility to the American Federation, but from the obviously general view at least on Capitol Hill that its dominant group in Washington grossly overstepped propriety in the present instance, and has been rebuked for it.

Indeed, I hear similar hints even from labor sources.

Peter's Adventures

—By—
Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

A CHANCE TO TURN TRAITOR

In spite of the predicament in which he found himself, the boy could not help laughing. The Redskins were tumbling to the ground like so many ninetins. His trusty spike was standing him in good stead.

"Not so fast, my good Ants!" cried Peter. "I am only a Two-legs, to be sure, but I can fight with the best of you. Don't make any mistake! You will never take me alive without a struggle. You are many and I am only one, and maybe you can overpower me with your numbers, but there will be a lot of you who will never live to tell the tale. Think well before you attack, Redskins! Making an end of me may not be so easy as you think!"

Peter was taking no chances. Without waiting for the Redskins next move, he rushed at them and taken unawares, they fell back.

"Hey, stop that!" pleaded the leader. "My soldiers are no match for that terrible weapon of yours! We need an ally like you. It is foolish to fight against so powerful a foe. Will you join the Redskin army? Come now, boy, how about it?"

"I'm willing to declare a truce!" said Peter, looking steadily at Red Ant. "But how am I to know whether I can trust you? Actions speak louder than words, you know, and just a moment ago you were ready to tear me to pieces. What proof have I that you will not fly at me again the moment I am off guard?"

"No proof but my promise. I never go back on that!" declared the Red Ant leader, proudly. "Join our army and I will make you High Commander of the Spike Brigade."

Next: "True to a Lost Cause."

MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Veal Loaf Scalloped Potatoes
Brown Bread
Cabbage Salad
With Thousand Island Dressing
Cranberry Jelly Pecan Pie
Coffee

This menu is enough for six people. It is mostly prepared in the oven.

Today's Recipes

Veal Loaf.—Two pounds ground veal, two eggs, three slices white bread, one-half cup milk, salt and pepper, one tablespoon butter. Use the juice of one lemon for flavoring.

Pecan Pie.—Two eggs, beaten well; one-fourth cup melted butter, one-half cup white sugar, one cup dark corn syrup, pinch of salt, one teaspoon vanilla, pecans. Bake in unbaked pie crust 25 minutes. In slow oven. Remove and place pecans on top and bake 25 minutes more. Serve with whipped cream.

Suggestions

Toys That Can Be Washed
Powder puff material is the newest fabric for teddy bears and such-like toys for children. Animals made of it are soft as velvet and ever so "cuddly." But with a brush they may be washed off thoroughly with soap suds and warm water, or with thick suds, rinsed and dried in a jiffy. It is better not to immerse them. The filling will not be injured, but if it is wet through it may take several days to dry.

Because of the demand for washable playthings, some of the other woolly Christmas toys are now so constructed that they can be washed with soap and water as often as necessary. Be sure to ask the shop's guarantee before buying, but in general, look for the "short-haired" animals and those in solid colors.

There is no longer any excuse for giving a child a toy that must remain dangerously dirty and germ-laden. A whole army of attractive stockinette, Turkish towel, composition, oilcloth, wood and rubber dolls and animals that take to water like the proverbial ducks are waiting for parents to choose from. They are painted and dyed in colors that are attractive and lasting.

Washable building blocks of wood, plain and painted, have new cousins made of rubber. A very recent arrival in the block family is a set of celluloid blocks for baby. They are hollow cubes that will rattle, in addition to serving the child's first constructive impulses, and are decorated with patterns that cannot be scratched off and will not wash off.

If Christmas is to bring the playroom new furniture, it is not necessary to buy a plain porcelain or enamel topped table in order to insure its cleanliness. Pictures and charmingly colorful chintzes are now being put on table tops under a transparent enamel that can be scrubbed.

Doctor Quotes New Experiments

—By—
LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The other morning when I was driving far out in the suburbs of my city I recognized a familiar figure walking vigorously along ahead. I overhauled this old friend whom I had not seen for years, and inquired the reason for the unusual activity. He explained that he had recently been examined by the medical department of his business organization and they found his blood pressure high.

Inasmuch as both he and I are getting fairly well along in years I averred this was not surprising. He told me then a thing which pleased me—to wit, that after the verdict had been given him he read article of mine about blood pressure. It was the report of the studies of Dr. Brown who found a considerable daily, weekly and seasonal variation in blood pressure in the same individual. My friend told me this had given him the greatest amount of comfort.

In the hope that more comfort will come out of it, I abstracted other recent set of studies in blood pressure.

They were made by Drs. Alvarez and Stanley. They did an interesting thing. They measured the blood pressure in six thousand prisoners and four hundred prison guards. Since these men were of all ages and lived decidedly under stable conditions, the results are interesting from the standpoint of average variations in blood pressure.

One important feature of the work was that the guards had on the average a higher pressure than the prisoners. The guards thought they were being examined to decide whether they should keep their positions. This emotional stress probably caused the rise in their pressures. Such a finding is certainly of distinct importance to all agencies who take blood pressures on applicants for positions.

Another point of importance—that the prisoners were not, at the time the pressures were taken, users of alcohol. Their acquaintance with bootleggers was on the social plane, as cell-mates. Yet the average blood pressures were no different—either lower or higher—than comparable groups of men subject to all the temptations of a naughty world.

It required several readings to determine what Drs. Alvarez and Stanley called mean pressure. They found this to average 115, a little more than life insurance companies give it. A number of prisoners had high blood pressure, and this occurred in those aged 20, as well as those aged 40. From this the investigators concluded that all those who have high blood pressure at the age of 40 had it at the age of 20. Their reasoning is not easy to see at this point and the conclusion is not easy to believe.

Cheerful Attitude Helps

—By—
MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

To say that life is what you make it sounds quite trite. It is one of those old sayings that make us of this generation sneer a bit. It is quite too Pollyannish for us, and we don't believe it. It's an exploded theory, we insist.

And yet it is surprising what a difference our attitude toward our life and its problems makes. One person will write, and her letter will team with woe over the hardships of her lot. Another with much the same circumstances will answer seeming to really enjoy life, and making light of the troubles.

Which leads us to suspect that there may be something in the idea that a cheerful outlook will brush away many of the woes flesh is heir to. It is certainly much pleasanter for those who have to live with us.

Some time ago a girl wrote that her life was hard and she was a nervous wreck. She did all the housework and her younger brothers and sisters wouldn't help her and she was so overworked and weary she wanted to die. The following letter from another girl in a similar position shows another side of the picture.

"Dear Virginia Lee! I have just finished reading a letter to you written by 'A Nervous Wreck.' She must not feel sorry for herself, because she will find out in the end that it does not get her anywhere. 'I suppose you wonder how I know. Well, Virginia Lee, I am 17 and have to keep house for two brothers and one sister. Parents are both dead and have been for quite a while and I have been doing housework for three years. I have six rooms and bath to do every day, and then the washing, ironing, cooking and baking. One of the other three might dry dishes after dinner, but that's all I expect them to do, because sister and brother work and the other brother goes to high school.

"I do all I can while everyone is out, and still find enough time for pleasure, and so I enjoy myself evening after evening and find life is quite agreeable.

"Please tell 'Nervous Wreck' for me not to look at the dark side of life all the time, because life is short and it does not pay to be gloomy. One only grows older by sitting at home and thinking how tired one is from the day's work. We must all do our share, don't you?

Men Ever Susceptible To Perfume

—By—
GLADYS GLAD

I might say, without exaggeration, that almost every man is emotionally susceptible to perfume. Women have made use of perfume throughout the ages to enhance their loveliness in the eyes of men. Cleopatra, the Queen of Sheba, old Barry, Ninon de l'Enclos, the Empress Josephine—all the famous beauties of history knew their perfumes!

Perfume is used more widely today than ever before in history. And, thanks to science, our modern perfumes far surpass the scents of the by-gone ages. The modern woman experiments until she finds the perfume that is best suited to her, and then has all the cosmetics and toilet accessories imbued with this scent.

One of the worst things you can do is to use a variety of fragrances at one time. Your perfume should be vitally YOU, should belong to you alone. I doubt whether anyone would like to admit that a conglomeration of rose, lilac, jasmine, lavender, violet and what not is the fragrance that represents her personality. It's a beauty atrocity to mix the scents about yourself in this manner. And yet women who use highly-scented cosmetics often unwittingly do just that.

Some rouges, powders and lipsticks are so heavily scented that they simply can't be used, if you have your own individual perfume. And the woman who cares anything about the impression she makes wants her perfume to express her own individuality.

If you are going to use highly-scented cosmetics, don't use a powder of one fragrance, a cheek rouge of another, and a lipstick of still another. Most of the cosmetics have aided us to some extent by using the same scent in all their preparations. But if you insist upon mixing the brands of highly-scented rouges and powders, you will emanate a conglomeration of odors that will prove most unpleasant. If you want your perfume to retain its appeal, by all means stick to one fragrance at a time!

Sidney High School may be regarded as the principal obstacle in Xenia Central High's path to a fourth consecutive basketball championship in the Miami Valley League during the 1930-31 campaign.

Always a dangerous foe, Sidney will be represented by a particularly strong quintet this season.

Three regulars from last season's team will form the nucleus for the development of the quintet this year, including Ritterer, stalwart center, who was knitzer to John Hurley, Xenia, for high scoring honors in the league last season; Stephan, guard, and Douglas, forward. Also available for the Orange and Black five are Collins, forward; Faber, center; Monroe, guard, and Milhouse, forward, from last year's reserves. A new addition to the squad is Faber, formerly reserve center on the Dayton Steele quintet.

Sidney will play a thirteen-game schedule, opening with Mendon at home Dec. 12, then playing Bellefontaine at home, Dec. 18; Alum at home, Jan. 3; at Xenia Jan. 9; at Bradford January 17; Troy at home January 23; Greenville at home January 30; at Dayton Kiser, January 31; at Miamisburg February 6; at Piqua February 13; Urbana at home February 20; Sidney Holy Angels March 4.

At the risk of devoting this entire column to Sidney athletics, Granville D. Robinson, Sidney coach, has adopted a plan that ought to prove interesting, especially to coaches and high school athletes.

Under the system devised, winners of the coveted "S" of Sidney High will no longer be required to excel in one particular branch of athletics.

The new plan, which has gained acceptance in several far-Western high schools, has been drafted with the purpose of encouraging participation in several sports and of recognizing those students who fail to receive a letter in any one major sport.

One hundred and eighty points, according to a specific schedule, will be required for a letter, with the privilege of carrying points from one sport to another and from one year to another. Service points, for squad membership, will be subject to special rules. Presentation of awards will be made at the end of each semester. It is planned to apply the system to the current Sidney school year.

The tentative point schedule follows:

Football: Varsity competition—5 points for each quarter; service—a maximum of 20 points.
Basketball: Varsity competition—4 points for each quarter; reserve competition—2 points for each quarter; service—a maximum of 20 points.

Track: State meet—first place, 50 points—second place, 40 points—third place, 25 points. District meet—first place, 40 points—second place, 30 points—third place, 20 points. Triangular or Dual meet—first place, 20 points—second place, 10 points—third place, 5 points. Points will be awarded to all members of relay teams.

Tennis: State meet—first place, 50 points—second place, 40 points—third place, 20 points. District meet—first place, 40 points—second place, 30 points—third place, 20 points. Triangular or Dual meet—first place, 20 points—second place, 10 points—third place, 5 points. Dual meet—25 points for each match won. Points awarded to both members of double team.
Intra-Murals: Basketball—40 points to members of championship team (maximum of 8 players). Volley Ball—40 points to members of championship team (maximum of 8 players). Track—40 points to members of championship team who participate in two or more events.
Points for other sports will be given on demand.

ROAN POST TEAM BEATS DAYTON
QUINTET AT ARMORY HERE 35-33

Spurring in the ebbing moments of the game after trailing by four points at half-time, the Xenia John Roan Post, colored American Legion basketball quintet, making its season's debut, came from behind to register a 35 to 33 victory over the Colored Y. M. C. A. "Big Five" team of Dayton in the first game to be played on the new National Guard state armory floor here Friday night.

Minus the services of "Rock" Anderson and "Wu Fang" Ward, two regulars, the Xenia independent team was handicapped considerably and nosed out a two-point triumph only after a sizzling contest.

The Legion quintet was behind at the half, 20 to 16 but in the closing moments of the contest "Bull" Moore, who starred for Wilberforce during the 1930 football season, evened the score at 33 to 33 with a field goal and Carter, angular center, himself a former Wilberforce court luminary, basketed the winning two-pointer.

George, captain and center for the Dayton quintet, was high-point man for the evening with eight baskets and two free throws for eighteen points, while Carter topped the Legion scoring with twelve points.

The game was preceded by a preliminary and was followed by dancing on the armory floor.

Unbeaten over a stretch of two years, the Bellbrook High School girls' basketball sextet, 1930-31 model, opened its current hard-won campaign with a top-sided 39 to 12 victory over Beaver Creek High girls on the Bellbrook floor Friday night.

The game was staged as a preliminary to the Bellbrook-Beaver Creek boys' game, which Bellbrook also won by a substantial margin, 37 to 16.

Bellbrook won two full games in both the boys' and girls' contests.

TEACHER KILLED,
COMPANION HURT

YAN WERT, O., Dec. 6.—One man was dead and another was reported to be dying today as the result of a grade crossing crash here late last night.

Professor Dale Molder, of the Gallon High School faculty, was killed instantly and Darrow McCullough, also of Gallon, was critically injured when their automobile was struck by a passenger train.

The two men were returning to their home after attending a Hi-Y Club meeting here.

WILSON CUTS BUCCANEER SQUAD
TO 21; TO OPEN SEASON FRIDAY

Xenia Central High's basketball squad, originally forty-six strong, experienced a further cut Friday afternoon and has now been whittled by Coach "Pinky" Wilson to twenty-one players, the number which will be carried throughout the season.

One of the number, however, is Harold Glass, senior from Beaver Creek Twp., who will not be eligible to play in regularly scheduled games until after the first school semester ends.

Here is the list of survivors of the original forty-six: Lester Price, Freddie Dalton, Jimmie Ralls, Howard Thompson, David Short, Robert Dice, Marvin Spahr, Sherman

The squad also indulged in a workout Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Four regular practices will be held next week, including one or two practice scrimmage sessions, and after two weeks of preparation the Buccaneer basketball team is expected to be in fair shape for the season's opener with Waynesville here next Friday night.

Waynesville has been playing regularly for the last few weeks and since the summer school will be further advanced in its training, the game should be close.

Coach Wilson has not decided upon a starting lineup for Xenia although Lester Price, Birch Bell and Freddie Dalton are sure of regular berths as they were regulars last season. Howard Thompson also sizes up as an almost certain starter but the center problem is proving a vexatious one for "Pinky" and so far he has been unable to find the answer in the back of the book.

Jefferson Twp. and Selma high school boys' and girls' basketball teams divided a double-header on the Selma floor Friday night, Jefferson girls winning their game, 21 to 6, while Jefferson boys lost, 31 to 20. Jefferson teams will meet Jamestown High School teams at Bowersville next Friday night.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED IN BLASTING CASE

IRONTON, O., Dec. 6.—A damage suit, asking $30,000 damages for the death of James B. Dean, 12-year-old school boy, who was killed November 1, when a tree stump was blown through the roof of the eKly school, was filed here today by William Dean, father of the dead boy, against the Ray Strawser Construction Company, of East Columbus.

Dean claimed in his petition that his son was killed when workmen for the construction company set off a charge of dynamite under a stump, hurling it into the air and through the roof of the school building. The teacher and five other pupils were injured in the accident.

NORRIS SATIRES
IN VERSE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Hoover's penchant for appointing federal commissions to deal with various public questions has inspired Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska, to satirical verse.

Today's congressional record presents this poem which the insurgent leader recited to the senate during the debate on the administration's proposals for emergency unemployment relief:

"Once to every man and nation
Comes the moment to decide,
In the strife of truth with false-
hood,
For the good or evil side.

But the case presents no problem
To the White House engineer;
He appoints a big commission
To report some time next year."

Sidney High School may be regarded as the principal obstacle in Xenia Central High's path to a fourth consecutive basketball championship in the Miami Valley League during the 1930-31 campaign.

Always a dangerous foe, Sidney will be represented by a particularly strong quintet this season.

Three regulars from last season's team will form the nucleus for the development of the quintet this year, including Kritzer, stalwart center, who was runnerup to John Hurley, Xenia, for high scoring honors in the league last season; Stephan, guard, and Douglas, forward. Also available for the Orange and Black five are Collins, forward; Faber, center; Monroe, guard, and Milhouse, forward, from last year's reserves. A new addition to the squad is Faber, formerly reserve center on the Dayton Steele quintet.

Sidney will play a thirteen-game schedule, opening with Mendon at home Dec. 12, then playing Bellefontaine at home, Dec. 18; Alum at home, Jan. 3; at Xenia Jan. 9; at Bradford January 27; Troy at home January 23; Greenville at home January 30; at Dayton Kiser, January 31; at Miamisburg February 6; at Piqua February 13; Urbana at home February 20; Sidney Holy Angels March 4.

At the risk of devoting this entire column to Sidney athletics, Greenville D. Robinson, Sidney coach, has adopted a plan that ought to prove interesting, especially to coaches and high school athletes.

Under the system devised, winners of the coveted "S" of Sidney High will no longer be required to excel in one particular branch of athletics.

The new plan, which has gained acceptance in several far-Western high schools, has been drafted with the purpose of encouraging participation in several sports and of recognizing those students who fail to receive a letter in any one major sport.

One hundred and eighty points, according to a specific schedule, will be required for a letter, with the privilege of carrying points from one sport to another and from one year to another. Service points for squad membership, will be subject to special rules.

At the end of each semester, it is planned to apply the system to the current Sidney school year.

The tentative point schedule follows:

Football: Varsity competition—5 points for each quarter; service—a maximum of 20 points.

Basketball: Varsity competition—4 points for each quarter; reserve competition—2 points for each quarter; service—a maximum of 20 points.

Track: State meet—first place, 50 points; second place, 40 points; third place, 25 points. District meet—first place, 40 points; second place, 30 points; third place, 20 points. Invitational meet—first place, 30 points; second place, 20 points; third place, 15 points.

M. V. L. meet—first place, 25 points; second place, 15 points; third place, 10 points. Triangular or Dual meet—first place, 20 points; second place, 10 points; third place, 5 points. Points will be awarded to all members of relay teams.

Tennis: State meet—first place, 50 points; second place, 40 points; third place, 20 points. District meet—first place, 40 points; second place, 30 points; third place, 20 points; fourth place, 15 points.

M. V. L. meet—first place, 25 points; second place, 15 points; third place, 10 points. Triangular or Dual meet—first place, 20 points; second place, 10 points; third place, 5 points. Points will be awarded to all members of relay teams.

BOBBY JONES

His Life in Pictures

1924—The Boy Golf Champion Takes a Bride.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of picture series telling the life story of Bobby Jones, retired golf king.

Bobby Jones, the golf champion, became a husband when he and pretty Mary Malone of Atlanta, Ga., were married June 17, 1924. Today the Joneses have two children, Clara and Bobby the Third. The above photo was taken at a welcome home dinner to Bobby at Atlanta, shortly before his engagement to Miss Malone was announced. She is shown seated beside him. After his marriage Jones, having won the American open and amateur titles began planning his invasion of the strong-hold of golf, the British Isles.

ROAN POST TEAM BEATS DAYTON QUINTET AT ARMORY HERE 35-33

Sputting in the ebbing moments of the game after trailing by four points at half-time, the Xenia John Roan Post, colored American Legion basketball quintet, making its seasons' debut, came from behind to register a 35 to 33 victory over the Colored Y. M. C. A. "Big Five" team of Dayton in the first game to be played on the new National Guard state armory floor here Friday night.

Minus the services of "Rock" Anderson and "Wu Fang" Ward, two regulars, the Xenia independent team was handicapped considerably and nosed out a two-point triumph only after a sizzling contest.

The Legion quintet was behind at the half, 20 to 16 but in the closing moments of the contest "Bull" Moore, who starred for Wilberforce during the 1930 football season, evened the score at 33 to 33 with a field goal and Carter, angular center, himself a former Wilberforce court luminary, basketball the winning two-pointers.

George, captain and center for the Dayton quintet, was high-point man for the evening with eight baskets and two free throws for eighteen points, while Carter topped the Legion scoring with twelve points.

The game was preceded by a preliminary and was followed by dancing on the armory floor.

COLGATE, NEW YORK PLAY FOR CHARITY

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Colgate University's stalwart football team meets New York University's Violets on the gridiron at Yankee stadium this afternoon for the benefit of New York's unemployed. A crowd of 75,000 was expected.

Colgate was favorite in the betting although if the field is soft, the chances of New York's victory are just that much better. A wet ball will effectively check the bullet-like passes of Captain Les Hart, the super-aerialist of Colgate.

CARNEGIE, W. AND J. WILL PLAY IN MUD

PITT STADIUM, PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6.—With the gridiron transformed into a first class quagmire by a persistent drizzle, the Tartans of Carnegie Tech and the Presidents of Washington and Jefferson took to a muddy field here today for the seventeenth renewal of their traditional rivalry.

Both squads were reported in first class shape which meant that Tech would start its veteran eleven and that Maury Rush, half-back, and Wilson, fullback, would be thrown into action for the Red and Black. Rush and Wilson, the latter an "ace" punter, are the outstanding stars of the Presidents' eleven.

LIPTON GOING HOME

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Sir Thomas Lipton will sail for England today with his golden loving cup, presented to him Thursday by American admirers. The cup, which has been insured for $25,000, will be displayed in England.

ROSS BEATS SPRING VALLEY WITH SWAIN LEADING IN ATTACK

All-County Center Sparkles; Ross Girls Also Win

Led by Swain, all-county center for the last three seasons, who scored fifteen points, Ross Twp. High School boys' team, which won the Greene County Class B title in 1929-30, defeated Spring Valley High School, runnerup for the championship last season, 22 to 14 on the Ross floor Friday night.

Swain, a junior this year, was held fairly well in check in the first half, which ended in favor of Ross, 7 to 5, but in the last two periods he went on a rampage, tallying twelve points. Compton, Spring Valley center, scored six points.

The strong Ross Twp. girls sextet overwhelmed Spring Valley lasses, 46 to 13 in the preliminary, it being the first experience for Spring Valley girls with the three-division court.

BOWERSVILLE WINS TWICE, LOSES ONCE IN TILTS THIS WEEK

Independents Take Two Thursday, Then Lose To Selma

Bowersville's independent basketball team won a double-header with Jamestown and Lumberton Thursday night on its own floor, but met its first setback of the season Friday night, bowing to the unbeaten Selma quintet, 33 to 21, on the Selma floor. On Thursday night Bowersville defeated Jamestown, 29 to 21 and Lumberton, 30 to 14, using two different lineups.

Selma was leading Bowersville 23 to 3 at half-time Friday eve but Bowersville turned the tables and outscored the home quintet, 18 to 10 in the last half. Lineups for the three games follow:

TEACHER KILLED, COMPANION HURT

VAN WERT, O., Dec. 6.—One man was dead and another was reported to be dying today as the result of a grade crossing crash here late last night.

Professor Dale Molder, of the Gallion High School faculty, was killed instantly and Darrow McCullough, also of Gallion, was critically injured when their automobile was struck by a passenger train.

The two men were returning to their home after attending a Hi-Y Club meeting here.

WILSON CUTS BUCCANEER SQUAD TO 21; TO OPEN SEASON FRIDAY

Xenia Central High's basketball squad, originally forty-six strong, experienced a further cut Friday afternoon and has now been whittled by Coach "Pinky" Wilson to twenty-one players, the number which will be carried throughout the season.

One of the number, however, is Harold Glass, senior from Beaver creek Twp., who will not be eligible to play in regularly scheduled games until after the first school semester ends.

Here is the list of survivors of the original forty-six: Lester Price, Freddie Dalton, Jimmie Ralls, Howard Thompson, David Short, Robert Dice, Marvin Spahr, Sherman

Huston, Everett Hall, John Beacham, Maurice Hyman, Elwood Shaffer, Samuel Lloyd, Paul Sheets, Fred Hook, Clinton Adair, Andrew Frazer, Birch Bell, Richard Creamer, Francis Dalton and Harold Glass.

Practice this week has been devoted exclusively to fundamentals and the candidates have concentrated on such phases of the game as basket shooting, pivoting, pass-work, dribbling and otherwise becoming adept as possible at handling the ball.

The squad also indulged in a workout Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Four regular practices will be held next week, including one or two practice scrimmage sessions, set after two weeks of preparation the Buccaneers basketballers are expected to be in fair shape for the season's opener with Waynesville here next Friday night.

Waynesville has been playing regularly for the last few weeks and since this small school will be further advanced in its training, the game should be close.

Coach Wilson has not decided upon a starting lineup for Xenia although Lester Price, Birch Bell and Freddie Dalton are sure of regular berths as they were regulars last season. Howard Thompson also sizes up as an almost certain starter but the center problem is proving a vexatious one for "Pinky" and so far he has been unable to find the answer in the back of the book.

DEPARTMENT STORE RECORDS BROKEN BY USE OF LARGE ADS

Use of multiple-page newspaper advertisements by department stores in Detroit, Brooklyn and New York has set new one-day sales volume records for these stores in recent weeks, Editor and Publisher reports.

Crowley-Milner and Co. Detroit, using twenty-one full pages, of which eighteen were in one paper, attracted 450,000 persons for a one-day sale to beat its own record in spite of lower prices. The store's radio department, using one page, sold $46,000 worth of radios.

The Namm Store, Brooklyn, made total sales of $650,000 in a one-day sale by drawing 500,000 persons to the store with twenty-nine full newspaper pages of advertising. The newspaper advertising cost $14,000. James McCreery and Co., Inc., New York, sold more than $50,000 worth of furs on the first day of a fur sale announced in four newspaper pages. The McCreery store, which has consistently increased its newspaper advertising all year, did its biggest October business this year, being $250,000 ahead of October, 1929, while the first part of November was 34 1-2 per cent ahead of the corresponding period last year.

DEBATING LEAGUE TO OPEN TOURNEY

Teams representing Xenia Central and Osborn Bath Twp. High schools are expected to compete with 123 other Ohio high schools in the fourth annual Ohio State High School Debating League Tournament which will open next month.

The schools participating have been divided into seven districts and Xenia and Osborn schools have been placed in the sixth district, which also includes Marysville, Woodstock, Washington C. H., South Solon and London.

District winners will be determined in an elimination series beginning January 16 and continuing on January 23 and January 30. Ties will be decided in an extra round scheduled for February 6. Question for debate throughout the tournament is: Resolved, that the principle of the chain store system is detrimental to the best interests of the United States public.

OLD RIVALS TO MEET ON COURT IN DAYTON

Charles "Stretch" Murphy, All-American basketball center for Purdue last year, will play for the Canton Firestones and Branch McCracken, center at Indiana University last season, will be with the Dayton Kellys when the two teams open the professional basketball season Sunday afternoon at the Dayton Fairgrounds Coliseum at 3 o'clock.

McCracken and Murphy met annually on the Big Ten court for the past three seasons and their duels never failed to interest. McCracken found a place at forward on the All-Big Ten team and was a popular selection for several All-Americans at forward.

Sunday's meeting will be their first on the hardwood since their graduation. Both are surrounded by all-star casts. Milas Shoun, six foot eleven inch center, is a member of the Canton team.

JORETTA

A LOVE STORY

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER
Author of "DAD'S GIRL" etc.

© 1930, Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:
Joretta Dowling is the beautiful daughter of a western merchant, whose socially ambitious mother has influenced her engagement to a wealthy shipbuilder, Norman Williams. He is addicted to drinking and jealousy, but Mrs. Dowling rushes the plans for the wedding in the autumn, Joretta has fallen in love with Jim Norton, the chief engineer on her father's new yacht. She finds he is an aristocrat by birth and a mechanical genius. He confides to her that he is working on a new carburetor for gas engines. Meanwhile, her father is making secret trips with the yacht to a southern port, to visit a mine that he has bought from a party of crooks: Lopez, Mike and a beautiful Mexican girl. Joretta and Norman are attending a house party at Long Beach, given by her friend Audrey Landon. Norman suggests that they all go to Agua Caliente, to which Joretta consents unwillingly.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 19
Throbbing guitars; languorous, indolent voices; popping corks; sharp and musical and guttural and raucous laughter. Flashing white teeth under crisp black moustaches, fair-haired youths; tawny hands and white hands, sombreros and derbies, peons and gentlemen—ladies, too. Vivid brunettes and startling blondes. Aggravating music, liquor-stained counters, gleaming brass rail, vacillating lights, glinting jewels—some phoney, some not. Well, I should say not! Black eyes, blue eyes; daring, questioning, laughing, suspicious, threatening, languorous. Hot lips touching, cold, ice-tinkling glasses, furtive, caressing fingers; swaying figures; shuffling, twinkling, dancing feet. It's early yet, but then, it's always early. A sandwich costs two pesos, one dollar. But who wants a sandwich anyway? Click of castanets—hot stuff, the dashing entertainer dances! Boisterous applause, tramping feet. More popping of corks and clinking of glasses, ah! "Mix the lot, what have you got?" "Magnolia? No, Agua Caliente. Just over the border into—Utopia, as you like it. No prohibition here. Never was, and never will be. What's it for, anyway? Quien sabe—who knows? Why bother? Everything's fine here, just as it is. In the next room, a roulette wheel whirls dizzily, the croupier calling for the plays and raking in the stakes; lottery coupon vendors weaving about among the guests; dice rattle. Pick 'em up, 'bueno—very good, senior! Si, si. Pesos and centavos, dollars and dimes click. Shake 'em again. My mala—very bad, senior! Shake 'em again. More machines stopping outside. More people entering—in search of thrills and ready for anything. Oye, the senorita sings! Can she sing it? Has she got it? Has she? Faces hang on her words. More foaming and sparkling glasses—and more. Such music—tum-tum-tum—carries you away, ah! Minor, yet so intriguing. "Like it?" asked Norman, watching Joretta's expressive face. "Why—I don't see anything worth coming here for. Monte Carlo on a grosser scale. It's all right, I suppose." She looked around. Some of their party were dancing, others sat at tables watching the animated scene with amusement. Some had been there before, to some it was a new experience. "Come on, Jetty, have a little treat. You know you're not breaking any laws now," Norman coaxed. "No, thank you, Norman. Law-breaking isn't the only reason I don't indulge. I just don't want it—why should I? Don't you think we'd better go now?" He laughed, a little loudly. "Go now? Why? We just came. Be a sport, dear, and have a good time." Her eyes pleaded with him. "But Norman, I didn't think it would be so—wild. I don't mind—with you, but we are responsible for the others." "Well, blow me down, Jetty, if you're not a wet blanket. Never thought it of you, Jetty!" He left her and sauntered over to the bar, resting his foot on the rail with a swagger. Audrey danced up, flushed and excited. "Darling, isn't this perfectly wild? So glad we came. Where's Norman? I want to thank him for suggesting it—oh, there—" She giggled and joined Norman. He turned to her with a pleased smile. He said something to her and they laughed hilariously. Joretta walked over to them, a little troubled frown between her eyes. "Audrey, I think we should go now. Your mother will be anxious." "Oh, Jetty sweet, we've only just got here. Of course, she won't worry. And aren't we having a grand time? Let's stay all evening. What do you say, Big Boy, can't we stay?" "Sure. Why not? Might as well as long's we're here. Don't mind Jetty—she's grouchy today," man now. And Audrey's lost her head over the excitement. We'll have to get her home." "Not my party," observed Jack. Besides, what can I do—they're all having a good time and want to stay." "Just because it's a new stunt," shrugged Sally. "I don't know why we ever came, anyway. We had a lot better time last night at Audrey's." "Oh, well, they're all getting a big kick out of this—let them alone." So Joretta attempted to enter into the spirit of the soiree, while her eyes anxiously followed them all about. She was most concerned for Norman, with whose weakness she was by this time very familiar. Sally nudged her suddenly. "Jet

BIG SISTER—The Hero

By LESLIE FORGRAVE

Six pictures in a year is the record of Helen Twelvetees when she completes "This Marriage Business," her new starring vehicle at Pathe. She is now acting in "Millie" for Charles Rogers. Joseph Santley from Broadway is adapting "This Marriage Business" and will direct.

Xenia Central High, which will play all its home games at the Casino rink, will open its basketball season December 9 against Washington C. H. here. Fraver at center, Baldner and Schultz at forwards and Johnson, McNeff and Belden at guards compose the team.

By a system of artificial canals, John Bryan, Yellow Springs, proposes to prevent the overflowing of the Missouri and Kaw rivers near Kansas City and thus protect the property in that vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gardner, Jr., E. Second St., are happy over the arrival of a fine baby daughter, born Monday.

NONSENSE

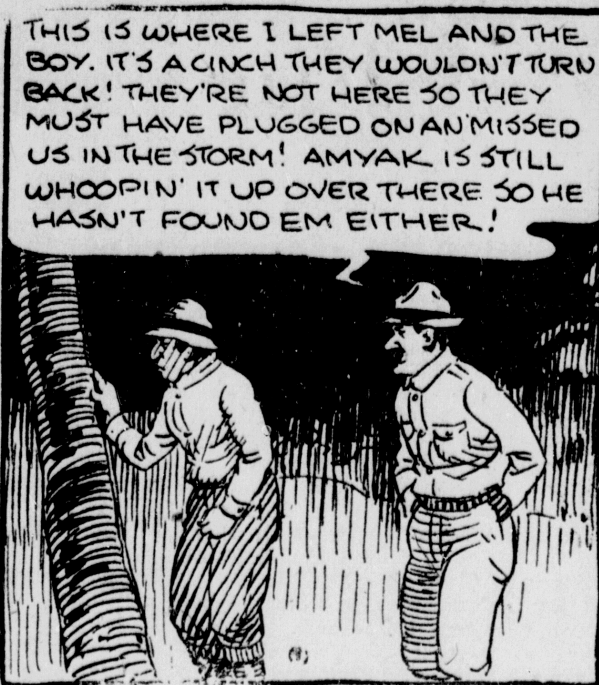

A black and white portrait of a middle-aged man with a mustache, wearing a suit and tie. He is looking slightly to the right of the camera. The image is a high-contrast, grainy print, likely from a newspaper or a low-quality photocopy.

Dr. Elihu Thomson, of New York, honored in many lands for his contributions to the field of electrical research, will be awarded honorary membership in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at the fifty-first meeting of the society.

Rosa Ponselle Will Sing Over Radio Sunday Night

THE presentation of Capt. Frank T. B. Hawks' glider "Eaglet", in which the distinguished flier crossed the continent last summer, to the Smithsonian Institute will be broadcast over the NBC network from Bolling Field, Washington, Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

Frank Tichenor, publisher of Aero Digest, will make the presentation speech and Dr. C. G. Abbott, director of the Smithsonian Institute, will accept the plane. Others to be heard during the broadcast include the three assistant secretaries for aviation, F. Trubee Davison of the army, David Ingalls of navy and Clarence Young of the department of commerce. The program will be on the air from 11 to 11:30 a. m.

PRIMA DONNA SINGS.

Rosa Ponselle, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Co., will be guest artist of the All-water Kent hour Sunday at 9:15 p. m.

Miss Ponselle will sing several groups of solos during the program. Station WSAI, Cincinnati, will carry the program.

ROSA PONSELLE

Baritone Soloist Featured.

Hubert Kockritz, baritone runner-up in the recent sectional contest of a national voice audition, will be soloist on the Crosley Concert hour over station WLW, Cincinnati, Sunday evening at 10:30 o'clock.

He will sing "Hindoo Song" and "Green Hills of Ireland."

To Dramatize Classic.

John Ruskin's famous childhood classic, "The King of the Golden River" will be dramatized over the radio in the Maltine Story Hour Monday evening from 5 to 5:30 o'clock.

The guest speaker on the program will be Dr. Roger H. Denney, a noted child specialist. The program will be heard through WLW, Cincinnati.

Include Spanish Numbers.

Several Spanish numbers will be featured in the program of the Ipana Troubadours Monday evening over the NBC network from 8:30 to 9 o'clock. Other dance tunes will appear on the same program coming through WLW, Cincinnati.

"Mike" Fright vs. Stage Fright.

"Mike fright," according to those who have had it, is worse than stage fright. This seems strange doesn't it? Men and women who have appeared on the stage for years with never a tremor have suddenly felt their legs give way and have occasionally had hysterics when facing a microphone for their first broadcast. For this reason it is absolutely essential to have only a small audience present in the broadcasting studios.

this week, and seemed in good shape.

Marshall Duffield will start at quarterback for the Trojans, and this was construed to mean that Jones would launch a forward passing attack early in the game such as he did a year ago when "Duffy" threw to Apst for a touchdown on the second offensive play.

Although the Notre Dame mentor admits that his forward wall is only 65 per cent as strong as that of last year, he feels confident that Jim Musick will not open wide holes through the center trio of Kassiss, Yarr and Metzger.

Southern California's center of the line far overshadows that of the visitors, however, for in Baker, Williamson and Shaw the Trojans boast the real backbone of their team.

Carideo is a field general who ranks among the most alert in the history of football and he's like a cat, ready to pounce on any slight error by the opposition. One mistake and it's too late.

In addition to his field-generalship, Carideo should be a valuable asset today for his punting, a feature in which he has excelled all year particularly in the Northwest.

Duffield and Shaver are good kickers, but their records do not begin to compare with that of the Notre Dame quarterback.

The official starting lineup subject to last minute changes, was named as follows with the kickoff set for 2 p. m. Pacific Coast time.

U.S.C.	Pos.	Notre Dame
Wilcox	LE	Kosky
Hall	LT	Culver
Baker	LG	Kassiss
Williamson	C	Yarr
Shaw	RG	Metzger
E. Smith	RT	Kurth
Arhelbide	RE	Conley (c)
Duffield	Q	Carideo
Apst	LB	Schwartz
Pinckert	RB	Brill
Musick	F	Hanley

Officials: Frank Birch, Earlham College, Ind., referee. Horace Gillet, Texas, umpire. Jay Wyatt, Missouri, head linesman. Horman Baker, Chicago, field judge.

MYSTERIOUS LETHAL FUMES INVADE MEUSE VALLEY; MANY FLEE

thousands of gas masks to the affected area, the inhabitants stuffed paper and cloth in the cracks of doorways and windows and huddled within their walls in fear as the yellow, choking mist swirled through the air outside.

SEEK NEW THEORY

Abandoning the theory that the slaughter might have been caused by stores of forgotten poison gas left buried somewhere in the valley since the war, officials divided their efforts between seeking the origin of the fumes and rendering aid to those threatened with death.

A check-up of the victims showed that most of those affected had been suffering from heart or lung ailments, rendering them more susceptible to the effects of the fog.

Among the theories put forward was that the fog, which has lain over the countryside for three days, had become surcharged with noxious fumes from zinc and other factories, but the extent of the area affected laid this open to doubt.

Terror gripped the inhabitants as they saw the victims, one by one, throttled by the asphyxiating fog.

Hopes were held out that the fog would lift by tonight, but during the early afternoon the choking mist still continued to deal out suffering and death, cloaking the entire countryside in an opaque blanket.

LONDON FOG LIFTS

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The dense

fog which has cloaked the Thames and part of England for the past fifty hours, halting all shipping, was gradually lifting today. Traffic was able to resume.

The channel, however, continued fog-bound.

Traffic in the river Thames began to move slowly as the dense curtain of fog filtered away, after more than two days of complete paralysis of shipping. Maritime authorities described the fog as the worst in decades.

The fog still remained heavy off the coast, however, and throughout the day large and small steamers poked their noses slowly through the mist with shrieking sirens and clanging bells, or else stayed anchored to avoid disaster.

The very fact the fog was so dense and complete probably kept accidents to a minimum, as few ship-masters dared to attempt to pilot their ships through the blind haze.

Trans-Atlantic liners, channel steamers and rusty freighters were affected alike, and the losses to shipping by the fog are expected to run into huge sums.

London itself suffered keenly by the fog, transportation being badly hampered, but this morning it changed from the blanketing pea-soup variety to the more familiar grey mist, permitting resumption of normal traffic.

On the larger ocean liners tied up in harbors and in the channel, the passengers amused themselves with games and dances during the period of waiting, but the crews of freighters had nothing to do but wait with sallow patience until the fog lifted.

PARIS ENVELOPED

PARIS, Dec. 6.—Heavy fog, drift-

ing across the border from Belgium, enveloped Paris and the northern coast of France today, tying up shipping and demoralizing traffic in the capital and other cities.

Street lights blazed at full strength to pierce the inky darkness on the boulevards.

The economies which result when raw materials are purchased in vast quantities. (3) The benefits of continuous research in General Motors laboratories and on the General Motors Proving Ground. And (4) the close association with the Fisher Body Corporation who, this year, have surpassed all their previous achievements in fine coachcraft by developing bodies of outstanding quality, refinement and value.

These basic advantages have made it possible to build a finer car at lower cost. They have enabled Chevrolet to offer important improvements throughout the new Chevrolet Six—to give it a longer wheelbase—greater roominess and comfort—strikingly smarter style—impressive new luxury—more thoroughly satisfactory performance—greater dependability. And—of great importance to hundreds of thousands of future buyers in the low-price field—these savings of efficient manufacturing are being passed on to the purchaser in the form of even lower prices!

"Mike" Fright vs. Stage Fright.

"Mike fright," according to those who have had it, is worse than stage fright. This seems strange doesn't it? Men and women who have appeared on the stage for years with never a tremor have suddenly felt their legs give way and have occasionally had hysterics when facing a microphone for their first broadcast. For this reason it is absolutely essential to have only a small audience present in the broadcasting studios.

this week, and seemed in good shape.

Marshall Duffield will start at quarterback for the Trojans, and this was construed to mean that Jones would launch a forward passing attack early in the game such as he did a year ago when "Duffy" threw to Apstl for a touchdown on the second offensive play.

Although the Notre Dame mentor admits that his forward wall is only 65 per cent as strong as that of last year, he feels confident that Jim Musick will not open wide holes through the center trio of Kassiss, Yarr and Metzger.

Southern California's center of the line far overshadows that of the visitors, however, for in Baker, Williamson and Shaw, the Trojans boast the real backbone of their team.

Carideo is a field general who ranks among the most alert in the history of football and he's like a cat, ready to pounce on any slight error by the opposition. One mistake and it's too bad.

In addition to his field-generalship, Carideo should be a valuable asset today for his punting, a feature in which he has excelled all year particularly in the Northwest game. Duffield and Shaver are good kickers, but their records do not begin to compare with that of the Notre Dame quarterback.

The official starting lineup subject to last minute changes, was announced as follows with the kickoff set for 2 p. m. Pacific Coast

U. S. C.	Pos.	Notre Dame
Wilcox	LT	Kosky
Hall	LT	Culver
Baker	LG	Kassiss
Williamson	C	Yarr
Shaw	RG	Metzger

MYSTERIOUS LETHAL FUMES INVADE MEUSE VALLEY; MANY FLEE

thousands of gas masks to the affected area, the inhabitants stuffed paper and cloth in the chinks of doorways and windows and huddled within their walls in fear as the yellow, choking mist swirled through the air outside.

SEEK NEW THEORY
Abandoning the theory that the slaughter might have been caused by stores of forgotten poison gas left buried somewhere in the valley since the war, officials divided their efforts between seeking the origin of the fumes and rendering aid to those threatened with death.

A check-up of the victims showed that most of those affected had been suffering from heart or lung ailments, rendering them more susceptible to the effects of the fog. Among the theories put forward was that the fog, which has lain over the countryside for three days, had become surcharged with noxious fumes from zinc and other factories, but the extent of the area affected laid this open to doubt.

Terror gripped the inhabitants as they saw the victims, one by one, throttled by the asphyxiating fog. Hopes were held out that the fog would lift by tonight, but during the early afternoon the choking mist still continued to deal out suffering and death, cloaking the entire countryside in an opaque blanket.

LONDON FOG LIFTS
LONDON, Dec. 6.—The dense

fog which has cloaked the Thames and part of England for the past fifty hours, halting all shipping, was gradually lifting today. Traffic was able to resume.

The channel, however, continued fog-bound.

Traffic in the river Thames began to move slowly as the dense curtain of fog filtered away, after more than two days of complete paralysis of shipping. Maritime authorities described the fog as the worst in decades.

The fog still remained heavy off the coast, however, and throughout the day large and small steamers poked their noses slowly through the mist with shrieking sirens and clanging bells, or else stayed anchored to avoid disaster.

The very fact the fog was so dense and complete probably kept accidents to a minimum, as few ship-masters dared to attempt to pilot their ships through the blinding haze. Trans-Atlantic liners, channel steamers and rusty freighters were affected alike, and the losses to shipping by the fog are expected to run into huge sums.

London itself suffered keenly by the fog, transportation being badly hampered, but this morning it changed from the blanketing pea-soup variety to the more familiar grey mist, permitting resumption of normal traffic.

On the larger ocean liners tied up in harbors and in the channel, the passengers amused themselves with games and dances during the period of waiting, but the crews of freighters had nothing to do but wait with sallow patience until the fog lifted.

PARIS ENVELOPED
PARIS, Dec. 6.—Heavy fog, drift-

ing across the border from Belgium, enveloped Paris and the northern coast of France today, tying up shipping and demoralizing traffic in the capital and other cities.

Street lights blazed at full strength to pierce the inky darkness on the boulevards.

BIGGER AND BETTER

THE GREAT AMERICAN VALUE

Fine-car distinction and quality in the new Chevrolet Six

Again, Chevrolet and General Motors have utilized their combined resources to establish a new and higher standard of value for the low-priced American motor car.

A new six-cylinder Chevrolet is now on display, offering fine-car distinction and quality certain to appeal to every discriminating buyer. For the new Chevrolet represents a type of economical transportation that America has long anticipated—a low-priced six styled with such striking talent and good taste, so smartly beautiful and complete in its perfection of detail, so advanced and refined mechanically that you will immediately recognize it as the Great American Value.

This great value is the outcome of four basic advantages which the Chevrolet Motor Company enjoys: (1) The savings of volume production in nineteen great plants which are models of completeness and efficiency. (2)

Front view of the new Chevrolet Sport Coupe

The economies which result when raw materials are purchased in vast quantities. (3) The benefits of continuous research in General Motors laboratories and on the General Motors Proving Ground. And (4) the close association with the Fisher Body Corporation who, this year, have surpassed all their previous achievements in fine coachcraft by developing bodies of outstanding quality, refinement and value.

These basic advantages have made it possible to build a finer car at lower cost. They have enabled

Chevrolet to offer important improvements throughout the new Chevrolet Six—to give it a longer wheelbase—greater roominess and comfort—strikingly smarter style—impressive new luxury—more thoroughly satisfactory performance—greater dependability. And—of great importance to hundreds of thousands of future buyers in the low-price field—these savings of efficient manufacturing are being passed on to the purchaser in the form of even lower prices!
